CASSIDY TELLS PURE FOOD FIGHT

A woman, by a single question, exposed the insincerity and selfishness of the opponents of two pure food bills, at a legislative hearing. After their arguments had been shattered, the opponents of the bill attempted to introduce into it a joker that would nullify the measure. Harry P. Cassidy, in his story today, tells the inside facts of the opposition to the bill, exposes the motives and the ruses of its opponents and shows why the bills should pass and become law.

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Mrs. Anna T. Stetnaer broke down the last defence of the opponents of the bills to require honesty in sales of butter, oleomargarine and cheese when, at a hearing before the Joint Committee on Agriculture yesterday, she asked Harry W. Mansfield, an opponent of the bill, this question:

"The retailer is protected by the Federal laws, from the wholesaler who attempts to sell him adulterated food. The retailer is told when he buys skim milk cheese that it is skim milk cheese.

"Why should not the consumer have the same right to protection? Why should you deny him the right to know what he buys?"

Mr. Mansfield who, as secretary of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers' Association, had opposed the bill, was at a loss for an answer. He stuttered and avaded. Then he changed the subject, and led the fight to thrust into the bill a "joker" that would nullify it.

HE, AND OTHER SPEAKERS, URGED THAT THE WORD "KNOWINGLY" SHOULD BE PUT IN THE BILL—SO THAT NO RETAILER COULD BE PROSECUTED FOR CHEATING HIS CUSTOMERS, IF HE COULD PLEAD THAT HE DID NOT KNOWINGLY DO IT.

It is that word "knowingly" that PROTECTS THE RETAILER under the present law, and PREVENTS THE CONSUMER FROM GETTING JUSTICE.

The word "knowingly" would nullify the bills. It should be kept out. The hearing before the Joint Committee on Agriculture, of which Senator Charles E. Ward of Buckland is Senate chairman, and Harry N. Eames of Andover is House chairman, was held in room 453 at the State House. The room was thronged by those who had come to favor the passage of the bill. The opponents adopted filibustering tactics and so delayed the hearing that Senator Ward was forced to adjourn before the advocates of the bill could be heard. He set next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for a further hearing.

Protect Honest Retailer.

All you who went to the State House yesterday to favor these two bills for honest foods, and all you others in Boston or Massachusetts who want your families and yourselves to have pure and honest food—mark that date on your calendar. Go yourselves, or write, next Wednesday, urging the committee to favorably report the bill.

You ask why you should do this. The answer lies in the bills themselves. Each is directly designed as a protection for the dairy interests of CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Jan. 24.—Led by Premier Bratlie, the Norwegian Cabinet resigned today. The ministry, which was Liberal, resigned because the party was defeated in the recent election.

AVIATOR FLIES OVER PYRENEES

PAU, France, Jan. 24.—Aviator Bidois starte to fly from here today in a monoplane over the Pyrenees Mountains to Madrid, 250 miles away. He arose to a height of nearly two miles and disappeared over a snowcapped peak.

TURKEY RECALLS ENVOYS

LONDON, Jan. 24, 6 p. m.—The Turkish peace envoys were recalled by their government late this afternoon. This was believed to forecast a renewal of hostilities in the Balkans.

Constantinople dispatches say the Young Turks have taken up the task of formulating a reply to the Powers' note. A negative reply is expected. Rifaat Bey has been appointed Minister of Finance and Mukhtar Bey has been temporarily named Foreign Minister. The Grand Vizier will act as Minister of War, and the portfolio of Minister of Marine has been given to Tschurukssin Mahmud.

Sultan Is a Prisoner.

VIENNA, Jan. 24.—Thousands of Asiatic troops were moved from the Asiatic side of the Bosphorous today into European Turkey upon orders from Enver Bey, who has assumed the rôle of chief of staff, according to a Constantinople telegram.

The same message stated that troops have been placed about the Sultan's palace and the Sultan is virtually a prisoner. The Turkish embassy was authorized to say that disorder in the Turkish capital had ceased. The radical Young Turks have assumed the name of the Party of Progress.

To Recall Envoys.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 24.—Following a night of terror, during which thirty persons were wounded in rioting and in fighting with the military police, Mahmoud Shevket Pasha, who has been acclaimed grand vizier by the Young Turk Committee of Union and Progress, issued a proclamation addressed to the people of the empire today in which he demanded that "Political deference be forgotten until the national honor of Turkey can be saved from further dishonor at the hands of a foreign foe."

This strongly indicated that the militarists among the Young Turks, who have secured the reins of government as a result of the sudden and unexpected overthrow of the Kiamil Pasha ministry, would revoke the action of the Grand Council, which had voted for peace, and again renew active hostilities against the Balkan allies.

It was announced that the Turkish peace envoys would be recalled from London within twenty-four hours.

The first official action by the new Young Turk cabinet was to recall for court-martial the Turkish ambassadors at Vienna and St. Petersburg. These diplomats were accused of showing weakness and not maintaining a strong diplomatic policy in behalf of their home government.

Enver Bey, who will likely succeed Nazim Pasha, formerly War Minister, as commander-in-chief of the army, and Talaat Bey, conferred with members of the Committee of Union and Progress and took steps for the calling of the old Parliament on the ground that it had been illegally dissolved.

WILSON HOPES TO SURVIVE DENTIST

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—President-elect Wilson came here today from Princeton to have his teeth fixed by his dentist. He said he had no political engagements for the day, and that, if he "survived the attention of his dentist," he probably would go to New York later in the day.

FORMER MANAGER OF YOUNG'S DEAD

SOMERVILLE, Jan. 24.—Walter S. Gallagher, who, for eight years, was manager of Young's Hotel, is dead at his home here. ### King Manuel Elopes With Moscow Beauty, According to Report

VIENNA, Jn. 24.—A special dispatch from St. Petersburg today said that former King Manuel of Portugal had run away with a noted Moscow beauty, the daughter of the richest Jew in the city.

This latest love affair of Manuel, who forfeited his crown for the night life of Paris, is said to have begun in Paris. It was a case of fascination at first sight, according to the story, and Manuel followed the girl to Moscow. He is said to have been seen with her, and their simultaneous disappearance led to the story of an elopement.

The dispatch was not confirmed, but aroused great interest, as Manuel is well known in the gay set.

Nashua Pastor to Give Gold Dollars to New Polish Babies

NASHUA, N. H., Jan. 24.—Every Polish child that comes into the world in this city will be born with a gold dollar in its mouth.

That is, it will receive the gold dollar when it is born, from Rev. Louis Wolyn, pastor of the Church of St. Stanislaus. He proposes to devote his vacation money to the payment of royalties for the birth of Polish babies.

As this vacation money amounts to $150 a year that will provide for 150 babies at a gold dollar each.

More than that the clergyman has announced that when such babies reach the age of six he will give them an education in the Polish school of his parish free.

The clergyman comes from Warsaw, Poland.

Ban on Moonlight Park Hikes Saddens Municipal Athletes

The ban placed on municipal moonlight park hikes by Mayor Fitzgerald was discussed energetically today by disappointed members of the Municipal Athletic Association. They had made preparations for the walk last night.

It was argued that if such walks could be held in other cities, like Chicago, for instance, there wasn't any valid reason why they could not be staged in Boston.

Franklin Park was to have been the field of the proposed pedestrian trip, but when the Mayor found that women were to take part with the men, he shunned down the lid.

In a statement issued today by the Municipal Athletic Association it was declared that there could be nothing out of the way in such a walk as was contemplated last night, because care had been taken to provide proper chaperones. Guards and other policemen were numbered among those who were to see to it that the proprieties were strictly observed.

NEW CAR SERVICE FROM BACK BAY TO THE NORTH STATION

Beginning Saturday, January 25, the Boston Elevated Railway Company will establish through service between the North Station and the Back Bay by running three lines that now terminate at Park Street Subway Station through the subway to the North Station. This change is in accordance with a demand for service between North Station, Copley square, Symphony Hall and other Back Bay points without the necessity of changing cars at Park Street Subway Station.

The lines that are to be extended from Park street to North Station are Milton Crosstown-Back Bay line, Allston-Brookline Village-Longwood avenue line and Allston-Brookline Village-Huntington avenue line. The new service will provide about fifteen cars per hour from the North Station through the Back Bay district.

The cars on the lines affected will pass through the Park Street Subway Station on the outer tracks instead of the tracks of the inner loop as heretofore.

HYDE PARK BANKER IS FORCED OUT

George T. Brady, secretary-treasurer of the Hyde Park Co-operative Bank for twenty-three years, has resigned at the request of the bank directors, following the discovery of an $800 discrepancy in the books which Mr. Brady has made good. James E. Sheridan of Hyde Park, one of the bank directors, has been elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Mr. Brady.

Richard P. Moseley, president of the bank, in a statement today, declared his faith in Mr. Brady's honesty and his belief that the $800 discrepancy was due, as Mr. Brady declared, to bookkeeping errors. So far as the bank itself goes, President Moseley said the institution is in first-class financial condition, a new issue of shares, to be placed on sale Wednesday, is already subscribed for, and that the trouble will be entirely adjusted at tonight's meeting of the directors.

From President Moseley's declaration of confidence in Mr. Brady's integrity it is inferred that, while the directors accept his explanation, it is necessary to make a change in the office of secretary-treasurer because the attention of the Bank Commissioner's office had been called to the situation and this action was inevitable.

Bank Organized in 1886.

The Hyde Park Co-operative Bank was organized in 1886 with $1,000,000 authorized capital. President Randolph P. Moseley was a deputy tax collector of Hyde Park until that town became Ward 24 of Boston a year ago. Since then he has been in the Boston tax collector's office. Judge Charles F. Jenney of Massachusetts Superior Court is vice-president.

George T. Brady, the secretary-treasurer, who has just resigned, is a prominent business man of Hyde Park and is secretary of the Norfolk Association.

The bank examiner detected last Friday a discrepancy of $800 in the books. President Moseley called a special meeting of the directors, who requested the resignation of Mr. Brady. The latter resigned and said that, if the reported discrepancy was affirmed, he would make it up to the bank.

An auditor's examination sustained the examiner's original report of the discrepancy and Mr. Brady paid in $800 to the bank as he had agreed. Inasmuch, however, that the shortage was due to error solely.

President Lauds Brady.

President Moseley said at City Hall today:

"I have the utmost faith and confidence in Mr. Brady, and when he says he believes the difference is due to an error in bookkeeping, I take his word for it. He has been an honest and hard-working officer, and there have been slight errors in the bookkeeping before which have been discovered by auditors.

"The bank is in first-class financial condition and our new issue of shares, which will be placed on sale next Wednesday night, is already fully subscribed for. We regret the publicity given this matter and are certain the building will be entirely established tonight's meeting of the directors."

MRS. GLOVER REPORTED MARRIED AGAIN AND NOW ON HONEYMOON

MRS. CLARENCE F. GLOVER, SAID TO BE BRIDE AGAIN

SENTENCE OF 6 MONTHS FOR J. H. HORSFALL

James H. Horsfall, the Lowell export dyer, man of wealth and club member, who has fought to the last ditch the State's prosecution, was sentenced to six months in Lowell jail by Judge Chase in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court at East Cambridge today for recklessly operating an automobile when he ran down and fatally injured Miss Ruth Kittredge in Wilmington, November 11, 1911.

Horsfall was taken to Lowell by a deputy sheriff to begin his sentence. There was no further appeal for him, the Supreme Judicial Court having sustained that part of the Superior Court's conviction.

Horsfall was driving his car at high speed through Wilmington when he struck Miss Kittredge, an elderly woman, who was standing by the side of another car on the road. She died as result of her injuries. The other car was damaged. Horsfall was arrested for manslaughter and was indicted for manslaughter, reckless driving, driving while intoxicated and for going away without stopping after injury to person and damage to property. He was first tried on the manslaughter count and the jury disagreed.

District Attorney Higgins of Middlesex immediately renewed prosecution on the other three counts. He was acquitted of driving while intoxicated, but was found guilty of reckless driving and of running away without stopping to see what damage he had done. He was given a combination sentence of six months in jail and $200 fine. Horsfall's counsel appealed to the Supreme Judicial Court on exceptions. In a recent decision the Supreme Court sustained the conviction of guilty of reckless driving but overruled the conviction of running away.

Today Horsfall was brought in for sentence on the reckless driving count, and was given the original six months sentence, without the $200 fine.

DUGAN DRAWS HIS FIRST WAR PENSION

Joseph Dugan, formerly chief of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation in Boston, today drew his first pension money from the United States as a veteran of the Civil War. While in the jury of the city Chief Dugan refused to apply for a pension, but after he retired from the service of the city he put in his application. His pension check for three months was cashed at the sub-treasury today.

MRS. GLOVER REPORTED MARRIED AGAIN AND NOW ON HONEYMOON

Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of Clarence F. Glover, the murdered Waltham laundryman, is reported to have been married and to be spending her honeymoon now at Norwich, Ct. The report could not be verified.

Mrs. Glover declared since her husband's death that she had received a number of proposals of marriage, many of them from men who had read of her as the centre of the strange death mystery.

She declared that there was a man in Washington whom she specially favored, but that she was not contemplating remarrying at that time.

Today's report came from a Boston man who saw Mrs. Glover and her husband at the Hotel Sidney in Norwich. Later they were called for in an automobile by a wealthy resident of Norwich and were taken to his home. The Boston man would not give the name of Mrs. Glover's second husband.

The Waltham home of Mrs. Glover was closed today and neighbors declared that she had been away from home for several weeks, telling them before she went that she was going to Connecticut.

CITY OVERTIME PAY UNNECESSARY, SAYS SULLIVAN

The charge that work was so arranged in certain city departments as to force the necessity of overtime work in order that certain Boston city employes might be given more than their regular wages, was made by Chairman John A. Sullivan of the Finance Commission at a hearing before the Legislative Committee on Cities today.

Chairman Sullivan appeared in opposition to a bill introduced by Representative John J. Murphy of South Boston to provide that city laborers shall receive a minimum of $2.50 per day and double for overtime work and work on Sundays and holidays. Mr. Sullivan said:

"This bill should be completely prohibited. The Mayor now has the power to increase salaries of its wages in Boston and he has done so.

As to the overtime provided for in this bill, I wish to say that there has been a great abuse of overtime in city departments and work has been so arranged as to force the necessity of overtime. The Finance Commission has asked the city law department to investigate and report to the Finance Commission whether the acceptance of the eight-hour act for city laborers by the voters at the last election does not prohibit overtime.

After considering the matter, the committee voted to refer the bill to the next Legislature at the request of the petitioner.

DEMAND FACTS IN MYSTERY

Edward D. Collins, member of the Governor's Council, declared today that at the meeting of the Council next Wednesday he will demand an investigation by that body into the suicide of Frank W. Dupre, a California University student, the news of whose death by hanging at the Concord Reformatory was kept from the public for more than three months. Councillor Collins said he believed "many important revelations of conditions at the reformatory" would be made as a result of an investigation by the Executive Council of this latest hanging at the reformatory.

Councillor Collins, in telling his reasons for demanding an inquiry into conditions at the Concord Institution, criticized the State Prison Commissioners. He made known for the first time the fact that at the meeting of the council last Wednesday the Prison Commission had been criticized in connection with the Concord Reformatory.

The proposed investigation will be to learn whether treatment by attendants or conditions at the reformatory caused Dupre to kill himself, and also to find out how he was able to commit suicide in the institution where he was supposed to be under the eyes of officers. Alvah S. Bailey, superintendent of the Concord Reformatory, was called to the State House today in conference with Chairman Pettigrew of the State Prison Commission.

Councillor Collins said:

Statement by Collins.

This matter should be carefully investigated and I will ask the council on Wednesday to make an investigation. I believe that many important revelations of conditions at the Concord institution would result. At the last meeting of the Council last Wednesday, criticism was made of the manner in which the Prison Commission is carrying out its duties under the law relative to the parole of inmates of the Concord Reformatory.

The contention was then made that the council should not be obliged to handle the petitions for the pardon of inmates of the Concord institution, but that the Prison Commission should keep in touch with conditions at the reformatory and see to it that deserving inmates were paroled.

The Prison Commission has not done this as it should. The case of Dupre simply emphasizes the need of some action by the proper authorities to make the Prison Commissioners get on to their jobs.

Had Refused to Work.

After his conference with Chairman Pettigrew, Superintendent Baker said:

"I know of no reason why Dupre should commit suicide. We have hangings at Concord every so often, just as they have them in all reformatory institutions and prisons.

Dupre was not considered an unruly person, but this October morning he simply and flatly refused to go to his work.

His work was in the housekeeping department of what we called the wing. It was what you might call domestic work.

When he refused to go to work, we did just as we do in all such cases. He was taken away and locked up in one of the detention cells. These detention cells include a block of twelve, apart from the regular cells. Our unruly prisoners are put into one of these cells and his case is taken up as soon as possible by Deputy Superintendent Allen.

Prisoners are never punished in these cells. Dupre to my knowledge was not punished that morning. He was seen several times by the deputy superintendent and by officers Chapman and Payson.

The last time he was seen was by Payson at 1 p. m. He was found hanging to his cell door by his suspenders at 1:55 p. m.

Ordinarily the officers could have

CARDINAL GIVES LENTEN RULES FOR CATHOLICS

The season of Lent or forty days of fast or abstinence before Easter, begins this year on Wednesday, February 5. Following are the Lenten regulations for Catholics in Boston archdiocese:

1. All the days of Lent, except Sundays, are fast days of obligation.

2. Those only are bound to fast, however, who are over twenty-one years old and not of advanced age, no one in any case being bound to fast who is sixty years old. The following persons are also exempt from fasting: The sick and convalescent; women during pregnancy and while nursing infants; those to whom fasting would cause grave injury to health, or produce such illness or exhaustion as would interfere with their daily duties; and those whose occupations are of a very laborious and exhausting nature. Those who doubt whether they are excused or not should consult their confessor.

3. On fast days those under the law are allowed but one full meal and a light supper.

4. Those whose habit it is to take their dinner in the evening are allowed a slight refection in the middle of the day. In all cases the breakfast should not be a meal, but should consist simply of a cup of coffee, chocolate or some other drink, with a small portion of bread.

5. Though the fast days of Lent are also days of abstinence, by virtue of Apostolic Indult even those who are obliged to fast may use flesh meat once a day on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, except the second and last Saturdays; those not obliged to fast may eat meat more than once on these days; but, by special privilege granted by the Holy See, workingmen and all the members of their families who are keeping the fast may eat meat once a day on all the days of Lent save Fridays, Ash Wednesday and Wednesday and Saturday of Holy Week; those of the family who are not obliged to fast may eat meat more than once a day on any day when the use of meat is at all permitted.

6. The use of flesh meat and fish at the same meal is forbidden to all persons during Lent, even on Sundays.

7. Those who are in some way or other dispensed from fasting or abstinence during Lent must remember that they are all the more strictly bound to mortify and deny themselves in some other way. Abstinence from all intoxicating drinks in honor of the Sacred Thirst of our Lord is especially commended.

8. The usual Lenten devotions will be provided in all the churches of the diocese and the faithful should be reminded that they should endeavor by earnest prayer, heartfelt contrition, and the worthy receiving of the Sacraments to profit by the special graces of the Holy Season.

By order of His Eminence, the Cardinal.

Aged Mother Seeks Estate of H. C. Wenz, Who Married Typist

In an effort to upset the will of Henry C. Wenz, the aged chocolate maker, who left the most of an estate of $200,000 to the young wife whom he married while he was held up on his feet, a contest began by Wenz' eighty-nine-year-old mother was resumed today before Judge George in Suffolk Probate Court.

Mrs. Frances Wenz, the mother, is in Germany, but her interests are in charge of Frederick L. Wenz, one of her sons. Another son, Frank Wenz, is interested in the case.

Wenz was seventy years old. On October 12, 1910, he married Miss Mary L. Sullivan, his young bookkeeper at the chocolate factory. When he died he left $500 to his mother and the most of the remainder of the estate to his widow.

MAN RESCUED IN MID-AIR IN CHARLESTOWN

Dangling from the roof of the Charlestown Public Library, a hundred feet in the air, Carl Hager, a painter, was rescued from death at 11 o'clock today, after a crowd that packed City square had stood with blanched faces for more than twenty minutes watching the perilous life-saving expedition of a policeman and two fellow painters.

Hager was one of four men who were painting the slanting mansard roof of the historic old Charlestown City Hall, now used as a library. A rope was attached to his waist, the other end being fastened to the dome of the building. He stood on the gutter that extended along the base of the roof. The police say that he was a wee bit overseas from too many nips in the early morn, but just what that has to do with what happened is not clear.

Suspended in Mid-Air.

The gutter on which Hager stood, gave way, and he fell. It toked to the passing throng below like Hager was going to land on his head on the pavement. But suddenly the rope went taut and Hager hung in mid-air.

Somebody sent for the fire department, and Ladder No. 27 from Monument street and Chemical No. 3 from Winthrop street, headed by District Chief Pope, hurried to the rescue. Somebody else told the police of Station 15, nearby, and Patrolman Durham scurried to the roof of the building before the firemen tried to raise a ladder.

Standing precariously on the ridge of the roof, bracing himself near the dome, Durham let two of the other painters down, hand over hand, on a rope until one of them seized Nager's coat. The other fastened a second rope around the dangling man. They had to move cautiously, as any false move meant death. But they had to hasten, too, for it was feared that Hager's rope would not hold him. Police Sergeant Toomey, in the street below, directed operations.

Hundreds Cheer Rescue.

When they had him hitched to the second rope, Durham pulled away, and a cheer went up from several hundred throats when Hager was slowly drawn upon the roof.

They found that Hager was unconscious, so Durham and his mates carried him down stairs to the police station. When they arrived there the police passed expert opinion upon Hager's condition and pronounced him intoxicated. They said he should not have worked on the perilous job today. Less he might repeat, they locked him up.

Hager is forty-nine years old and lives at No. 19 Stanford street, Boston.

A. S. BAKER, HEAD OF THE CONCORD REFORMATORY

TODD REJECTS ALL DEMANDS OF TRAINMEN

BANGOR, Jan. 24.—The point blank refusal of President Todd of the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad to grant the demands of the conductors and trainmen for an increase of 46 per cent. in wages, beginning Monday, and his statement that there is nothing to arbitrate in the road's differences with the striking engineers and firemen, gives the situation a decidedly more serious aspect today. National officers of the conductors and trainmen are in Bangor and meeting with them is a committee of the Maine Central trainmen. There are rumors that a strike on the latter road is imminent. If the Bangor & Aroostook trainmen go out, it will not be in a "sympathy strike." The demands of these employes must stand on their own merits, the leaders declare.

NEW MYSTERY IN SUICIDE AT REFORMATORY

him in sight all the time. That's the reason for keeping the officers in the room in which the detention cells are located.

But in this case attention was not attracted to him for some thirty-five minutes. And then they found him hanging. I did not report the matter to the Prison Commission for three days because in such cases I want to satisfy myself that I have found out everything possible concerning the prisoner and the case.

When Dupure was first admitted he told me he came from Newfoundland. Then I understood he came from California. I found a note book that led me to believe he did come from California. I simply delayed making the report until I could find out something more about Dupure. He was buried in the cemetery attached to the reformatory.

I believed as did the Medical Examiner, and I believe now, that it was a case of suicide.

The reason for the act I do not know.

Dupure, who was twenty-four years old, having spent $2,000 in and about Boston, pawned a fine suit of clothing for a small sum. Not being able to redeem the clothing he broke into the pawn shop and took it. He was committed to the Concord prison.

Friends of Dupure will demand an investigation of the young man's death. They want to know whether he hanged himself or whether he was strung up by others, because of his spirited objection to the rigid discipline of the institution.

No explanation has so far been made as to why the death of this young man was hushed up so long.

Records of Case.

The records at the State House, obtained today by the AMERICAN, show that Superintendent Baker's report of the case of the young man's death was received at the office of the Massachusetts Commission SEVEN DAYS AFTER IT OCCURRED. The young man was found dead in his cell, hanging by his suspenders, on October 28. The report of it was received at the State House on November 4.

The report recites that Dupure had been locked up because he refused to work. This was done at 8 o'clock in the morning. He was "interviewed," the report says, several times between that hour and when he was found dead at 1:35 in the afternoon.

The report says that Dupure had stated that his parents were dead and that an address was found after his death in Berkeley, Cal. Superintendent Baker said he wrote to the chief of police of Berkeley asking about Dupure, but it is not known what the result of this correspondence was.

There were four suicides of boys and young men in the Reformatory within the years 1912 and 1913.

It is regarded as a queer coincident that the facts about the death of Dupure should come out just at the time that Governor Foss is looking for a new head of the Massachusetts Prison Commission. It was reported today that he had asked Colonel Joseph F. Scott, superintendent of prisons in New York State, to take the job.

Following is the official report of Dupure's death:

Report on Case.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Massachusetts Reformatory, Alvah S. Baker, Superintendent.
Concord Junction, Oct. 31, 1912.

To Mr. Frederick G. Pettigrove, Chairman Prison Commission, Boston, Mass.:

(Stamped: Rec'd at Prison Commission's Office, Nov. 4, 1912.)

Dear Sir—I have to report to you that on Monday, October 28, at 1:35 p. m., Frank W. Dupure (18,596) was found hanging by his suspenders to a cell door and was cut down by Officer Chapman.

Immediately Dr. Fernald was summoned and efforts were made to resuscitate him, but unsuccessfully. At 2:45 p. m. Dr. Henry J. Wolcott, medical examiner, arrived, and examined body and premises.

Dupure had been locked up about 8 o'clock in the morning because he refused to go to work. At 9 o'clock he was interviewed by the deputy superintendent and also at several times during the forenoon by Officer Chapman and at 1 o'clock by Officer Payson.

Dupure, when committed, said that both of his parents were dead and gave no address of relatives or others who might be notified in case of necessity. He said he was born in California, and in a memorandum book found in his room after death is an address in Berkeley, Cal. I have written to the Chief of Police of Berkeley in the hope of reaching his relatives.

Respectively yours,
ALVAH S. BAKER, Superintendent.

Here is the official record of suicides at the Concord Reformatory during the years 1911 and 1912:

March 28, 1911—Louis Hoffer, newsboy, sixteen years old. Hanged.
July 21, 1911—George Rogers, twenty-two. Hanged.
September 11, 1911—Joseph Stacia, twenty-four. Hanged.
October 28, 1912—Frank W. Dupure, twenty-four. Hanged.

On March 2, 1899, John C. Marshall, twenty-five years old, hanged himself at the Reformatory.

Erastus H. Smith of the Concord Board of Health said today that the record of Dupure's death was filed there by Medical Examiner Henry Wolcott.

"When was it filed?" Mr. Smith was asked.

"On the day it happened or the next day," he replied.

ANNOUNCE AUTO PRIZE WINNER NEXT SUNDAY

By the CONTEST EDITOR.

Today begins the last five full weeks of the AMERICAN'S great $40,000 prize contest.

FORTY THOUSAND DOLLARS in cash and prizes will be won by fifteen hundred and one subscription-getters four weeks from next Friday. Never in the history of newspaper enterprise was such a splendid array of prizes offered for subscription work.

The capital prize alone—$10,000 in cash—is worth a lifetime of effort. But, by the terms of the contest just a few days over five months have been allotted in which to win it.

The same brief opportunity applies to the remaining 1,500 prizes, to the five $1,000 awards, the $600 awards, the motor boats and the rest of the attractive prizes.

There is only time now for the final dash to the prize goal, for the last roundup of all votes and subscriptions which have so far escaped.

The last five weeks may mean the difference between winning and losing.

Get out in your territory, which is all New England and NOT confined to your own city or town.

Line up every subscription in sight today, tomorrow and every day from now until February 28.* As a purely business proposition such effort will well repay you.

The vote list following next Sunday's standing will be printed in the Sunday AMERICAN, February 9. The polls will close for this list on Monday, February 3, at 5:30 p. m. This list will include all mail matter actually received at Contest Headquarters before that hour on that day.

The February 9 vote list will be the last to be printed before the contest closes on February 28.

Here is the new special vote offer: A special vote bonus will be given on each subscription turned in between Thursday, January 16, and Saturday, February 1, at 10 p. m., as follows:

| Sub term. | Reg. value. (Votes.) | Bonus value. (Votes.) | Total. (Votes.) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 6 months..... | 1,500 | 500 | 2,000 |
| 12 months..... | 3,500 | 1,500 | 5,000 |
| 24 months..... | 7,500 | 3,500 | 11,000 |

There will be a new vote list printed in next Sunday's AMERICAN, January 26. This list will be compiled up to Monday, January 20, at 5:30 p. m.

Next Sunday's list will also contain an announcement of the winner of the special automobile prize.

VERA DOWLING IS GIVEN "ONE MORE CHANCE"

Vera Dowling—pretty Vera Dowling of the "baby stare"—has been given another chance to reform and make herself worth something in the world. Father Lynch of the Catholic Protective Association in New York convinced Judge O'Sullivan in court there today that it was possible to save the nineteen-year-old Revere girl, who, posing as well-known young women, defrauded Boston and New York merchants of thousands of dollars' worth of goods.

Vera Dowling, who has served a term in the reformatory at Sherborn for her Boston misdeeds, was in Judge O'Sullivan's court today, charged with stealing two gowns from a Fifth avenue dressmaker. During the months that she has been in the Tombs in New York, Father Lynch has endeavored to induce the girl to return home and live a different life. When she appeared in court she was very penitent, and Father Lynch started with her for her home in Revere today.

Miss Dowling's downfall was complete in not more than a year after she committed her first known crime, inspired, she said, by a Harvard student, whom she loved, and who told her that she resembled Governor Foss' daughter so strongly that she could obtain the finery and gay life she craved by posing as Miss Foss for purposes of shoplifting.

The young girl, then just past seventeen, had been educated at a convent by her parents, whom she has steadfastly refused to name throughout all her short and misguided career. She came here from the convent at Baltimore to study music. She met the young Harvard student soon afterward. She declares that he and others inspired the twist that then occurred in her life.

She posed as Miss Foss and again as Miss Dorothy Forbes, a friend of Eleanor Sears, and procured several hundred dollars worth of jewels.

STEPMOTHER WILLED NOTHING TO BROWN, JR.

The will of Mrs. Charlotte Thompson Agnes Brown of Commonwealth avenue, whose stepson, Harold Haskell Brown, has just married "Idylia Vyner," the former burlesque star, was filed in the Suffolk Probate Court today.

The will disposes of $419,500 in specific bequests, while the entire estate is estimated at $700,000.

Nothing is left to Harold Haskell Brown, the stepson, whose legal dispute with his stepmother for his share of his father's estate resulted in a victory for the son.

Mrs. Brown was the second wife of the late Samuel Newell Brown, who was vice-president and general manager of the Fairbanks Scale Company. He died last July 4 and cut off his son, Harold Haskell Brown, with $1,000. The will said previous provision had been made for the son.

Mrs. Brown Died Jan. 18.

The widow, who was only half her husband's age, received practically all the property, but the son prepared for a contest and a compromise was effected before the case came to trial. It was understood that the stepmother gave up a large share of the estate to the stepson.

Mrs. Brown died January 18. The stepson married "Idylia Vyner," the burlesque favorite, and his boyhood sweetheart, yesterday.

It was reported, in accounts of the wedding, that the stepson had recovered $600,000 from Mrs. Brown. Hence the surprise today at Mrs. Brown leaving an estate estimated at $700,000, with specific bequests of over $400,000.

Walter I. Badger, counsel for Mrs. Brown, is named as executor and is down for $25,000.

$250,000 for Hospital.

The executor is authorized to spend $250,000 for a new hospital building for the New England Baptist Hospital on Parker Hill in memory of her husband. This is to be called the Samuel Newell Brown Memorial Hospital.

The New England Baptist Hospital is made residuary legatee. If the estate amounts to its estimated figure, the residuary legacy will be nearly $200,000.

Other charitable bequests are:

| | |
|---|---|
| Boston Home for Crippled Children | $5,000 |
| Cullis Consumptives' Home, Boston | $10,000 |
| Burnap Free Home for Aged Women, Boston | $5,000 |
| Brockton Hospital, to establish a Franklin and Martha R. Ames fund in memory of Mrs. Brown's father and mother | $50,000 |
| Brockton Hospital, for children's fund in memory of [illegible] Charlotte Ames Grover | $10,000 |
| Franklin Square House, Boston | $10,000 |
| American Baptist Home Mission | 5,000 |
| Baptist Home, Cambridge | 5,000 |
| Boston Home for Aged Couples | 5,000 |
| N. E. Moral Reform Association | 10,000 |
| Private bequests | 29,500 |

Will Made After Settlement.

This will is dated December 28, 1912. This date was after the settlement of the threatened contest over Samuel N. Brown's will.

Harold and his bride left Boston on the 1 a. m. train today for their honeymoon.

The first part of their itinerary includes Detroit, where Mr. Brown will attend to some automobile business; Cleveland, where Mrs. Brown's mother lives, now Mrs. Seward, wife of Eddie Seward, the old baseball pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, Kansas City and other teams; Cincinnati and other cities.

Upon their return, Brown will teach his wife aviation. She is already a motorist and horsewoman.

Will Go to Panama.

It is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Brown to travel by easy stages to the Pacific Coast. Upon the return journey they will visit Panama, planning to arrive in New York in the Spring, when the weather will permit aviation.

It is understood that besides bestowing a $5,000 automobile and other luxuries upon his wife, Mr. Brown settled a country estate of sixty acres, at Centreport, L. I., upon her.

Mr. Brown is about forty. He first attracted attention as a motorcycle rider years ago, and his love for speed led many of his friends to fear for his life. He next took up automobiling and was an ardent devotee of automobile racing until aviation caught his fancy. Unknown to his friends, he took up the study of the flying machine in 1911 and qualified for a pilot's license at the Hempstead, L. I., flying field, September 11 of that year.

Brown was one of the original draft from the Massachusetts Naval Brigade in April, 1898, and served on many vessels during the war.

Mrs. Brown was born in Woburn in 1881. From the outset her success on the stage was assured and it was not long before she became leading woman for Rice & Barton, and continued by that role for more than a dozen years.

GIRL FORGER AGAIN IN COURT; NEW EVIDENCE REVEALED TO POLICE

FIRST BOSTON PICTURE OF YOUNG WOMAN FORGER.

Mrs. Abbie L. Moulton.

Additional forgery charges developed today against Mrs. Abbie L. Moulton, the Back Bay girl whose alleged operations have amused the police and public of late.

The girl's trail is being followed back through New England cities and towns.

She is already held in $600 for the Superior Court on her appeal after being found guilty of forging three checks here.

Today she was in Boston Municipal Court, again to face a new charge that she paid for a $12 coat at a Tremont street store last December with a $25 forged check and received $13 change with the coat.

While the police were attending to this charge they received notice from the police chief of Gardiner, Me., that Abbie Moulton passed a forged check in that town some months ago.

Gardiner is the town where Mrs. Moulton was married three years ago. She was then Abbie Davis, and she married Oliver Moulton, now in Passconaway, N. H. They lived in Gardiner and Lewiston until they separated a year and one-half after marriage.

News of the alleged operations of this striking girl has caused the authorities in places where she has lived, especially in Maine, to investigate quietly.

The notice of a forged check in Gardiner is the result of one of these investigations.

The first the Boston police knew of the surprising personality of this vivacious, well dressed brunette was when she was arrested last Saturday night after attempting to pass a check at Samuel Barron's Back Bay drug store.

Monday she was found guilty of forging three checks and was sentenced to the woman's prison at Sherborn for an indefinite period.

While the prisoner admitted the forgeries she was obviously surprised and disappointed at being ordered to prison. She wept and pressed a handkerchief to her eyes. Her lawyer entered an appeal and Judge Bennett held her in $600 for the higher court. In default of bail she was remanded to jail.

DOCTORS FAILED TO RELIEVE—A KIDNEY MEDICINE ACCOMPLISHED REMARKABLE RESULTS

About fifteen years ago I began ailing with backache and sick headache, also nervous trouble. For about nine years I received treatment from different doctors, but did not receive any relief or benefit from their medicine. About six years ago I began using Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and took same until I was entirely cured of my ailments. I am now well and strong and have not had to take any medicine for the past two years. I attribute the cure of my ailments to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and cannot praise the same enough. I would heartily recommend any person suffering with backache, sick headache or any nervous trouble caused by kidney disease to at once begin taking Swamp-Root, as I am positive it will effect a permanent cure.

Yours truly,
MRS. JOSEPH BOEHLER,

HUDSON CHILD HAS TALK WITH JUDGE DUBUQUE

Ten-year-old Lucy Hudson of Dorchester, whose aunt and divorced father and mother are engaged in a three-cornered contest for her possession, was brought before Judge Dubuque in the divorce session of Suffolk Superior Court today for a talk with the Justice himself.

The child, a bright and attractive girl, was led up to the bench. Judge Dubuque greeted her kindly, smiled at her, then took her by the hand and led her into his chambers for a chat. For ten minutes the learned Justice and the little girl talked. Then they came out, with a bright smile on Lucy's face. Afterwards Lucy was taken home by members of the John H. Miner family, with whom she is now living.

Lucy is the daughter of Raymond J. J. Hudson and his first wife, Mrs. Maude Raymond, who were divorced in Vermont. Lucy was put in the custody of her aunt, Mrs. John H. Miner. Her father has married a second time. The contest for custody of the child between Raymond J. J. Hudson, Mrs. Maude Hudson and the Miners has been on this week before Judge Dubuque.

Mrs. Maria Hudson, mother of Raymond J. J. Hudson, who testified yesterday that her son had been cruel to the child, striking her a stunning blow when Lucy was only twenty months old, was recalled to the stand today for cross-examination. The grandmother held to her story. John H. Miner, superintendent of the Ford building, testified in doubt of the father's story of interference between him and his child. Miner said that Lucy was welcome to stay in his home as long as his wife wished.

Fireman Overcome at Park St. Blaze Saved by Comrades

Fire, which caused $3,000 damage early today to the building at No. 2 Park street, nearly cost the life of Fireman Thomas Kennealy of Engine 28, when he was caught by smoke belching from a basement window, his escape cut off by a high fence in the rear.

Kennealy had been sent around to the rear to open a window for ventilation. He managed to climb on a high iron fence, and, by leaning over, opened a window on the first floor. As he did so a burst of smoke nearly overcame him and he dropped to the ground, some five feet below, between the fence and the building.

Men from Ladder 8 went around in the rear and found him helpless from the effects of smoke. He was dragged from his perilous predicament just in the nick of time.

The fire started in the basement occupied by the Boston Cooperative Flower Market, from causes unknown, and worked its way up through to the second floor. On the first floor were the jewelry stores of Aleah Skinner and W. P. Bullard Company, opticians and opticians. There was little stock in the building and the damage was the greatest to the building.

MOTHER'S TEARS MOVE JUDGE TO FREE ROBBER

A mother's tears melted the hearts of Judge A. Nathan Williams and Mrs. Donald M. Blair, a highway robbery victim, in the Roxbury District Court today, and won probation instead of a jail sentence for the young robber, Eugene F. Green, who was captured by the victim herself.

The robbery occurred in the Fenway last night. Green snatched a purse from Mrs. Blair, who lives at No. 5 Walnut street, Roxbury. Mrs. Blair and several others gave chase, caught the youth and recovered the purse.

Green, who is eighteen years old and lives with his mother at No. 661 Massachusetts avenue, was arrested. His mother went to court today and pleaded with Mrs. Blair, who did not press the case. The mother induced Judge Williams to turn the boy over to Probation Officer Keen.

SENATORS VOTE DOWN CAPITOL RECEPTION PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Democrats in Senate in caucus today went on record as opposed to a public reception in the Capitol building as a part of the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of President-elect Wilson.

By practically an unanimous vote the caucus declared that the Capitol was not the proper place for holding such a function, and endorsed Governor Wilson's views with respect to the inaugural ball.

A resolution was also adopted commending "the careful and deliberate manner" in which the Democrats are considering the numerous civil appointments by President Taft since the election.

'Clinging Vine Wife Not Practical Type,' Says Blanche Bates

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Jan. 24.—"The clinging vine type of wife is not at all practical, according to Blanche Bates, famous as "The Girl of the Golden West," who was married some two months ago to George Creel, Denver's reform chief of police.

She took several hundred society women into her confidence, saying at the meeting:

I wanted to be the old-fashioned clinging vine kind of a wife, and when I promised to become Mrs. Creel I fully expected to darn his socks and cook two meals a day for him. I learned since married that the type I always admired and which I still regard as lovely and charming is not at all practical.

MAYNARD IS AGAIN COMMITTEE HEAD

Joseph A. Maynard was reelected president of the Democratic City Committee at the meeting in Faneuil Hall. Andrew R. Kelley, chairman of the Ward 20 committee, was nominated to oppose Maynard, but declined to run. Kelley had himself placed Maynard in nomination. Maynard's election was unanimous. Jacob F. Barry of Ward 12 was elected to succeed Morris L. Morrison of Ward 21 as second vice-president. The other officers are: Patrick J. Brady, first vice-president; Jeremiah J. McNamara, treasurer, and Andrew A. Badaracco and Francis L. Daly, secretaries.

PARLIAMENT TAKES UP FIGHT ON SUFFRAGE

LONDON, Jan. 24.—The English women's fight for the ballot was carried into Parliament today. When the franchise bill was called up in the House of Commons this afternoon, the battle over the Grey amendment, providing for votes for women, began at once. Although Speaker Lowther had ruled that the amendment could not be affixed to the franchise bill, its supporters disregarded the ruling and started a fight to have it attached.

Alfred Lyttleton, the chief suffragette supporter of the suffragettes in Commons, made a formal motion that the Grey amendment be considered along with the franchise bill.

"Every bit of violence committed by women in their fight for the vote was justified," declared Lyttleton.

He was followed by Francis Harcourt, secretary of state for the colonies, who is violently opposed to women suffrage. "I believe women's suffrage is a great evil, and I will vote against it," said he.

"I suppose," shouted Lord Hugh Cecil to reply, "that you approach this subject as though you had never got over the indignity of being born of a woman?"

The debate was heated and the Speaker had a great deal of trouble to keep order.

It was rumored in the lobbies of Parliament building that the government would drop the franchise bill altogether in order to get out of the troublesome question of women's suffrage.

KNOX' PANAMA REPLY DOES NOT SUIT BRITISH

LONDON, Jan. 24.—Secretary of State Knox's reply to Sir Edward Grey on the question of the Panama Canal tolls is found unsatisfactory by those erudite newspapers which comment on it.

The Westminster Gazette, generally looked upon as the mouthpiece of the government, says the reply does not "suit the door. The Gazette says it leaves the door open to a long series of bickerings, which would do much to weaken the good relations of the two countries.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that "coming from any other country than the United States, the tone of Secretary Knox's reply would be deeply resented in this country."

FISHERS DISAPPEAR STRANGELY AT SEA

The fishing schooner Clintonia, which arrived at T wharf today, reported the mysterious loss of two of her crew during the trip. Captain Willis stated that he was fishing about thirty miles off Liverpool, N. S., on the 13th, and that when the men came in from their trips in the afternoon one dory, in which were Stephen Muse of St. Pierre, N. F., and Simon Merchant of Arichat, N. S., was missing. After looking a while they remised where the men had set their trawls, but they saw no trace of them. It was a calm, clear day, and Captain Willis cannot account for their disappearance.

WESTERN UNION WINS STAGE SUIT

The Western Union Telegraph Company won the suit brought against the company by the Quigley Theatrical Agency (Inc.) when a sealed verdict was opened today in the United States District Court before Judge Morton. The verdict, which was for the defendant company, was reached by the jury last night. The agency sued for $10,000 for alleged libel. Sam Langford, former champion pugilist, was a witness in the trial.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Jan. 24.—The Rev. Dr. Eben Burt Parsons, secretary of the faculty and registrar of Williams College from 1885 to 1900, is dead, aged seventy-seven years. Dr. Parsons graduated from Williams in 1859, was principal of the Greenfield High School from 1859 to 1862, studied theology at Union and Auburn Seminaries until 1865 and was ordained chaplain in the United States Navy.

INJUNCTION LATE; FURNITURE SOLD

The injunction restraining Mrs. Emily B. Dugan from selling any of the household effects of her husband, Joseph E. Dugan of Roxbury, was dissolved today by Judge Norton in the equity session because she had disposed of it all before the injunction was granted. Each has filed libel for divorce. She lives in Jamaica Plain.

CANDY MAKER AND BROTHER WERE ENEMIES

Miss Mary E. Stone, a nurse, testified today in the Superior Court of the enmity between Henry C. Wenz, the rich old chocolate maker, who left the bulk of his $60,000 estate to his young bride, and his brother Franz, whom, with their mother, Wenz practically excluded from the estate.

Miss Stone's evidence was given at a continuation of the hearing of the will contest in behalf of the eighty-one-year-old mother who lives in Germany.

Wenz was seventy years old when he died, May 27, 1912. On October 12, 1910, he married Miss Mary L. Sullivan, his young bookkeeper at the chocolate factory. It is declared by the contestants of the will that he was paralyzed and had to be propped up by three persons when married.

He was attended by Miss Stone at that time and her testimony today told of happenings in the year that Wenz married.

Miss Stone said that one day in 1910 she and Mr. Wenz were out for a walk and that they went to the Public Gardens. She said they sat on a bench and had not been there long before Franz Wenz, his brother, came along. "Henry," she said, "told me to spread my apron so he could not see what he did not care to see him.

She said that Franz addressed Henry in German and that Henry answered all questions in English so she would be able to understand what they were talking about. "Franz," she said had been there only a short time when they engaged in an argument over the amount of tiffies in the garden, and finally Franz said he would smash him (meaning Henry) in the face."

Dr. Arthur W. Fabyanske, one of Wenz's physicians told of the number of times he had visited Mr. Wenz and of the treatment he received.

"Did you ever make a written report of the case, doctor?" he was asked.

"The doctor said he did not, and after close questioning he admitted that at one time he gave a written report to Franz who called at his office in order to obtain it.

Mr. Williams produced the written report and the doctor admitted that it was the one he gave to Franz.

Schooner Luling, "Houndaw Craft," Kicked Around Bay

Waterside folks along the shores of the South Bay today are likening the old dismasted schooner Charles Luling to a friendless mendicant—wanted by no one and in everybody's way.

The Luling arrived in port from "down East" several weeks ago. She had been having rough weather and her masts were broken off and she was otherwise damaged by the gales that had borne her down and she was kept afloat only by the nature of her cargo—spruce laths and cedar shingles. She tied up at Curtis & Pope's lumber wharf. Her skipper claimed demurrage and refused to take it out in other quarters, so she had been there for some time. He soon got welcome out and the warning ordered her away.

The vessel then dropped down to the City wharf and lay there until she became a nuisance and Captain Hird, the harbor master, drove her away. She is back at Curtis & Pope's wharf now, but an enraged shipbuilder is smashing his fist at her and loudly ordering her to vacate.

30 MONTHS FOR KILLING WOMAN WHO JILTED HIM

SALEM, Jan. 24.—Noe J. Chartier, who went to Lawrence from Biddeford, Me., four months ago and in that brief period met, wooed, won, lost and shot Amelia Labelle, a divorcee, killing her, today was sentenced to two years and a half in the House of Correction for his crime, although he was brought up for trial on a homicide charge.

The prosecution said that Chartier met Mrs. Labelle and became an ardent suitor. She promised to marry him when she was divorced. Meanwhile she became fickle, met another man whom she loved more and jilted Chartier. Chartier shot her.

District Attorney Attwill told the court that he was willing, under circumstances to accept a plea of guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon.

WILD ANIMALS FLEE MEXICAN VOLCANO

GUADALAJARA, Mex., Jan. 24.—Driven from their haunts by lava and live embers, many wild cats, mountain lions, deer and other wild animals are passing through the deserted villages around the foot of Mount Colima, the Jalisco volcano, which is in full eruption. Hunters, daring death from the eruption, are venturing nearly to the base of the mountain in pursuit of game.

BERLIN, Jan. 24.—The condition of Prince Adelbert today was unchanged, physicians said. The crisis had not been reached. The Empress remains in the sick room.

MRS. WEEKS TO SEE NEWTON FETE SENATOR

Everybody out in the Newtons were the gladdest of smiles today over the news announced at the Newton City Hall that Mrs. John W. Weeks is coming from Washington to attend the big "welcome home" which the Garden City will give in honor of her husband, the new United States Senator from Massachusetts, tomorrow night. The word that Mrs. Weeks was coming to be present came in a telegram received today by the committee in charge of the arrangements for the big reception to the Senator-elect.

It is expected that between 1,500 and 2,000 persons will gather in the Newton City Hall tomorrow night in honor of the new Senator. This would be the largest crowd ever to assemble in the building. The reception will be from 7:30 until 10. On the minute of 7:30 every bell in the church spires and towers of the municipal buildings will begin ringing out the city's welcome to the Senator-elect.

In the meeting the will be one Senator-elect and Mrs. Weeks, Mayor Charles E. Hatfield and Arthur W. Blakemore, president of the Board of Aldermen.

The Aldermen will be ushers. Mounted in the assemblage will be the officers of Company C, Fifth Massachusetts Regiment of Volunteers, headed by Captain George Daniels.

The City Hall will be decorated inside and out with bunting and American flags, flowers and potted plants. On the outside will be hung a big painting of the new Senator. Inside the Cadeli chamber will be hung a lifelike painting of the Senator-elect. The music will be furnished by the Boston Philharmonic orchestra, under the direction of A. H. Handley.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR L. D. MARGOLIS

Judge Morton in the United States District Court today appointed Rufus H. Sprague and Walter M. Gifford receivers for Louis D. Margolis, in business under the name of the Eastern Tea & Coffee Company. The amount of the bond for each receiver was $10,000. Liabilities of the firm, which was recently petitioned into involuntary bankruptcy, are estimated to amount to $85,000. The assets are estimated to amount to $25,000.

ROOSEVELT IN CONFERENCE TO AID STRIKERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Theodore Roosevelt, whose interest in the garment workers' strike was aroused several days ago by a visit to the East Side strikers, called Gertrude Barnum, the leading organizer of the white goods workers, to the Outlook office today and had a conference upon ways and means to bring about a speedy settlement. Miss Barnum brought documentary evidence showing the conditions under which the striking workers had labored.

Roosevelt said he would make a statement later in the day.

Gertrude Coffin, another leaders of the strikers, and several union officials appointed to Mayor Gaynor and Police Commissioner Waldo to take some action against two policemen whom she charged had clubbed sixteen-year-old Irene Roth, a strike picket, because she refused to move on from in front of a factory. A grand-jury by the factory acquitted another girl, Miss Cordie said.

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Chronic, Crippled-Up Sufferers Find Relief After a Few Doses of New Remedy Are Taken

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys that fail to filter from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that today in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and then sets out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poison from the blood and drive it in and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. No matter how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible for you to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache or overcome urinary disorders.

I ask you to compare my present clothing values with the best in town—

The more thorough the comparison—the more certain I am of making you a customer.

My present values are simply not to be considered with the average clothing sale offering. I am confronted with a greater task than any other store ever faced. I MUST turn stock into cash to make my settlement with Mr. Georges, Sr., who is to retire from this business on March 1st. These extraordinary reductions represent

My Final Reorganization Effort

PAST FIFTY? YOU NEED "CASCARETS"

What glasses are to weak eyes, Cascarets are to weak bowels —Try a 10-cent box.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One night is well refuse to all weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

A HAPPY CHILD IN A FEW HOURS

When Cross, Sick, Feverish, Tongue Coated or Bilious, Give Delicious "Syrup of Figs."

Mother! look at the tongue! See if it is coated. If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and clogged up waste and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs and in a few hours the foul, decaying constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well and smiling child shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides, they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine, old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

SEND CALL FOR 1920 FETE IN PILGRIM HONOR

Beginning today every New Englander will be called upon to take a part in effecting the big tercentenary celebration in honor of the Massachusetts Pilgrim fathers. D. Chauncey Brewer, chosen chairman of the committee which is to arrange a celebration to eclipse everything of a like nature ever held in New England, is marshalling his plans for a country-wide campaign to stir up and awaken all lovers of the historic associations of the early days in a fete in 1920.

The purpose is "to enlist all present and former residents of New England in an adequate and appropriate recognition during the year 1920 of their debt to the Plymouth settlers for what New England as a whole is today; to encourage the largest possible coming of visitors to New England from all parts of the world."

Detail plans for carrying on the work of the organization were outlined. What the committee further proposes will be made known at the next conference, which the chairman will arrange for later.

How the committee stands on two important points is shown in this statement:

This committee recognizes the historical pre-eminence of Massachusetts, and especially of Plymouth, in any program for 1920. It anticipates that the Commonwealth and the proper organizations will take the initiative in the local commemoration and in a permanent memorial representing the world's interest in the landing of the Pilgrims. It believes that this plan for a New England-wide commemoration cannot in any way conflict with the Plymouth celebration of December 21; it cherishes the hope and purpose of deepening interest in that event.

As regards a World's Fair in 1920 to commemorate the Pilgrims, this committee recognizes the interest of some and the opposition of others, and therefore stands in a neutral position, believing that its own plans in no way antagonize such a project, and hoping that they may make New England in its entirety an exposition of world-wide value and attractiveness.

SCOTTI BREAKS WITH MISS IVES NEAR DATE SET

Antonio Scotti, the baritone of the Metropolitan Opera House, and Charlotte Ives, the young English actress whom he was expected to marry within a month or two, have parted, according to reports which both admit, though vouchsafing no reason.

New York dispatches recounting this proved especially interesting today to Boston friends of Geraldine Farrar, the Melrose singer, because they told of gossip in opera circles there to the effect she and Scotti had made up their quarrel and that is why Scotti is not to wed Miss Ives.

Miss Farrar was prostrated when the announcement of the engagement of Scotti and Miss Ives was made on the other side of the water, where all three were at the time. She cancelled her plans for an American tour and friends asserted she might not sing for a year as a result of the news concerning the baritone who had paid her ardent court.

Scotti and Farrar were so angry at each other they didn't speak when they met by accident.

According to the New York reports Miss Ives reluctantly and excitedly admitted today her romance had come to an end.

"Yes," she said when asked whether there was truth in the rumor that her engagement was at an end, "but I cannot explain now."

Scotti, who is living at the Hotel Knickerbocker, would only say with non-committal shrug of his eloquent shoulders: "It's a private affair. I can only say that I am very sorry, very sorry that I cannot tell you everything. The lady may speak, certainly, but it would not be right for me to. I am very sorry."

NORWEGIAN EXPLORERS IN PERIL OF DEATH

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Jan. 24.—The Norwegian expedition, sent to the relief of the German scientists reported to be stranded and suffering terrible privations in a remote part of Spitsbergen, left Advent Bay, Spitsbergen, Monday, according to a wireless dispatch.

The expedition was forced to return three days later, as the water was found to be open and communication overland was impossible. The relief of the German scientists will be impracticable until new ice has formed. Captain Ritscher, one of the explorers, brought to Advent Bay the first news of the plight of his comrades whom he had been compelled to leave behind, exhausted with cold and hunger, on Wide Bay.

Several others of the party had not been heard from since August, when they had gone on a sledge journey.

SAYS DAKOTAN MADE $50,000 OFFER FOR AID

Horace G. Whitmore, a bridge contractor of Minneapolis, Minn., a witness for the Russell estate in the will fight at East Cambridge, today declared that in April, 1909, he heard Dakota Tan make an offer of $50,000 to "anybody who would help him out." Whitmore said the Dakota claimant agreed to invest $50,000 in a coal franchise with the witness was selling, provided Whitmore would extend a helping hand. Whitmore says the dead Dakota Tan in his fight to prove his claims to a share in the Russell estate.

The claimant told me he learned of his being wanted to share in the estate through a clipping from a Melrose paper," said Whitmore. "He told me he had married in Malone, N. Y., had left his wife and that their two children were living at Bradley Iron Works, N. Y. He told me he left home because his father was always whipping him. He said his father never did anything to 'Willie.' He said he once dropped a watch his father gave him and was so badly beaten he was in bed several weeks. He said he then ran away from home."

YOUNG WOMAN TELLS HOW SHE STRUGGLES TO LIVE ON $8.00 A WEEK

By SYBIL WARNE.

Miss Carrie Mason, a young woman, has come to me and told me her struggles to get along on her weekly wage. She has been in Boston for several years and began to live here on $8 a week.

She told me her many troubles in trying to make two shirt waists keep her decent looking for weeks and how she mended an old skirt, until she hated to go out into the streets with it. She was often hungry and longed for a pantry, where she could go and find a nibble of food.

Then she got into quarters from which she had to flee in the night-time, and sought refuge in a place with a girl companion, with whom she formerly worked. Finally she got $8 a week. She maintains that a girl, who does not live at home, cannot get along on less than $10 a week. Even then it is very difficult, she says.

Miss Mason is a conscientious young woman, who wants to do right, who has served well in the positions given her, but through no fault of her own lost them. She is now without anything to do, owing one week's room rent. She has not lost her courage, but she wants something to do—something steady—and will be willing to prove herself worthy of it, if given a trial.

Came Here Three Years Ago.

"It is just about three years ago since I came to Boston," said Miss Mason.

"It was a sad day to me to leave my home in the country and come into the city, but I just could not bear it; as both of my parents died and it seemed that I had nothing to live for. I first got $5 a week and boarded in the Y. W. C. A., where I paid $4.25 for board and lodging. It was hard getting along. A friend of my mother gave me a number of clothes and for some time I did not have to think about clothes.

I paid 10 cents daily for my lunch-eons. Some days I did not have any luncheon. I used to envy the men, who could get so much more food than I could afford. Then I got a place in a telephone office to work nights. It was hard work, but I was getting $8 a week.

I got down to two shirtwaists and one skirt. I had a few hard debts to pay and did not get a new suit till after twenty-one weeks passed.

Then my shirtwaists began to wear out. A lady in a church that I attended told me that I must come to see her. I did so. When I was leaving she gave me a bundle to take home. I found in it much wearing apparel. I was so happy that night because much of the material that I got I could wear. I tried on the dress and it fitted me. Only the sleeves needed a little altering. My mother taught me how to make over a dress and I worked on this every night until I finished it.

Studied to Be a Nurse.

A lady in the church told me, that I would have a better prospect in studying for a nurse. I went to the Worcester Memorial Hospital. It was hard work there. Many a time I just cried, for I got so tired and lonesome. I stood it eighteen months and came back to Boston to a friend who has been very kind to me. Then I began work in an office, doing stenography.

Men would come into the office and say "How do you do, little girl" and all such stuff. They would ask me, if I did not want to go to the theatre. I never went to any such place. All I wanted was to get along and get some clothes and something to eat. I used to see other girls have such nice things and it often made me cry. This is what it cost me to live while working in that office.

Sunday Her Lonesome Day.

Sometimes I would go to church on Sunday morning, because the church was warm. Sunday was the most lonely day in the week for me.

Then, I changed my lodging place, and I found out that I made a mistake. The landlady was very kind to be, but I knew that someone else had a key to my room besides myself, and one night I rushed out into the streets and stayed all night with one of the girls with whom I worked when I first came to Boston.

Here is my idea after my many experiences:

| | |
|---|---|
| Board and lodging | $6.50 |
| Laundry | .50 |
| Clothes | 2.00 |
| Carfares | .50 |
| Lunches | .50 |
| Total | $10.00 |

I am now out of a position, simply because times are slack. My greatest temptation in this city is loneliness and hunger.

The AMERICAN continues to receive scores of letters from young women who are fighting out the battle of life right here in Boston. Can a girl live on $8 a week? Read these letters received today by the AMERICAN for answers to this problem as found by young women themselves:

Gives Year's Cash Account.

Editor AMERICAN:

Enclosed find my ideas in regard to living on $8 per week. These figures are for a year:

| | |
|---|---|
| Board and room | $208.00 |
| Extra Sunday lunches | 7.80 |
| Washing (average 40 cents week) | 20.80 |
| Carfare once a day (6-cent fare) | 18.75 |
| Shoes, rubbers, etc. | 12.00 |
| Two hats (fire or sacrifice sale) | 6.50 |
| Jacket or raincoat | 10.00 |
| Two suits (turkdown) | 25.00 |
| Four summer shirtwaists | 4.00 |
| Three Fall and Winter Waists | 3.00 |
| Extra work dress skirts (suits) | 6.00 |
| Underclothing, collars, etc. | 14.00 |
| Church | 6.00 |
| Daily and Sunday papers | 6.00 |
| Total | $414.85 |

Must Help Heathen, Too.

Editor AMERICAN:

I should say a girl can live on $8 or less a week, provided she has clothes to start with. Year in and year out it cannot be done. For a year one receives $416, provided you are on duty every day and get your wages for holidays. After board and room is paid for there is something over $100 for clothing, which should not consist of the cheapest suits procurable.

I have also found that when at church you are expected to contribute with occasionally a small donation for the missionary or heathen.

As a rule nearly every working girl is obliged to spend a small sum each year for dentistry. It is a healthy girl who does not consult a physician during the year, another expense.

At the very lowest a working girl needs every article on the following list to make life worth living: Amusements, vacations, occasionally a magazine or book.

GROWS BEAUTIFUL, HEAVY HAIR WE PROVE IT—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Destroys dandruff—Stops falling hair—Cleans and invigorates your scalp—Delightful dressing.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will, you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

ANGELA MORGAN TELLS DESERTED WIFE'S BATTLE AS A GARMENT WORKER

By ANGELA MORGAN.

ANGELA MORGAN

"I shall build up my children better than my folks built me. They shall not suffer as I have suffered."

These words of a deserted wife, who is striving to support two children on an average wage of $6 a week, offer the key to the reason why 12,000 women garments workers of Boston are crying out for better conditions and better pay.

The spirit that urges these women to protest is the spirit that makes for progress and civilization; it is the call for better health, better homes, better children—a stronger generation to come.

The little woman who uttered the words is a remarkable example of pluck and perseverance and self-sacrifice. Her name is Bessie Kohn and she is thirty-three years old, the mother of a girl of fourteen and of a boy of eight.

Her story is one of the most heart-stirring I have listened to from the lips of these toiling garment workers. It is truly a stormy narrative of hardship, adventure, domestic unhappiness and the everlasting struggle for living conditions.

Married in Russia at the age of eighteen—fifteen years ago—she and her husband were happy but a short time, because of the bread and butter question. He was a shoemaker, but he could not earn enough for the young mother and the baby and himself.

At last the daylight seemed to break. Letters came from relatives in America telling them of the wonderful opportunities in this land of the free, where "everybody has the same chance."

Alas for the hopes of the immigrant father and mother, bringing their babe to the wonderful new country! They had been here but a short time before they knew the truth.

The blow was too great for the husband. Want is a whip that keeps the mind always sore and rebellious, and when added to one's own want is the need of a wife and baby, with no hope of meeting that need, a man may grow bitter indeed.

The wife sometimes reproached him, and then words led to words. Quarrels became more frequent, and she cried out that she would not have the child brought up in such discord.

When the boy was born, it seemed more than the struggling man could bear, to see the suffering of all.

Bessie Kohn does not blame her husband for leaving her.

"It was better so, for I would not see the children brought up where there is always quarrelling. I could not keep him with us. It was much easier, I thought, to get work than to quarrel. I mean, I made up my mind that I myself would earn the bread and let him go.

Here is the rest of the story, in her own words:

After that, I was father and mother both to my children. I went to work for a cloak and suit firm, where I worked from 8 in the morning till 6 at night, stopping only for lunch. I had to leave the children alone in the house while I was away, and that was hard. I could not help worrying about them while my fingers flew, lining the coats that would bring in money to feed them.

I am a finisher of coats and skirts; I put in the linings. Sometimes I earned $6, sometimes more. When the season was slack I could not earn more than a dollar or two.

Earned Quarter in Half Day.

This morning I earned twenty-five cents, because there is not much work yet to do in the shop where I am employed. Don't you see, that is the way it is. If I could every week earn as much as I earn when work is at its height, I could get along. But what shall I do when the season is dull?

I have great hopes for my children, for I want them to escape what I have suffered. The little girl has talent for music. I want her to have a musical education some day, if I can work hard enough to earn it. In the neighborhood where we live, the people are kind and let her use their pianos to play on and sometimes she gets a few lessons that way. I want my children to have a good education in books, too. They must learn the things that will make them understand how to live.

We have a little home in the South End of Boston, near Shawmut avenue. Every morning I get up at 6:30 and get breakfast for the children, and dress them for school. Then I must leave them before 12 and I go back home again and give them their lunch. I have only half an hour for it, so I must hurry to get everything done. You see, this is the only time I get to prepare supper.

Has to Miss Own Luncheon.

I get that ready while the lunch is cooking and leave it on the gas with the light turned low, so when they come home at the usual time after school they will find supper all cooked and ready.

Most of the time I am compelled to do without my meal, for there isn't time to eat it if I save all those other things to do. I have to be back for my work in the shop.

When I don't work overtime I return for supper, but otherwise I don't get home till about eight. I hate to have the children alone all this while, but it is a thing I cannot help if I am to earn bread for them.

I have worked in various shops where cloaks and suits are made. I worked six years steady in one of these shops and still I have not made enough to keep us out of need. I am forced to pawn my wedding ring and whatever I can get hold of so we will not lack for bread.

My rent is $10 a month, for we have four rooms. I want to have room enough so the children will have air and health, not all be crowded in one place.

Her Simple Menu.

How do I manage to pay the bills, you say, when there is no work at the shop? Why, we have to do without, that is all. When I am earning my best, however, I manage to buy enough so there will be enough to eat.

The boy and the girl are all I have of the future. They must be nourished. Here is what we have to eat when things are at the best. For breakfast, bread and cocoa. For lunch, boiled potatoes, bread and butter and tea. For supper, half a pound of meat at 15 cents a pound. That is the way I manage.

Helleu Shaves His Vandyke Beard; He Is Disguised Now

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—M. Helleu the French artist, is causing his friends a great deal of trouble. He has shaved off his famously familiar Vandyke beard.

"Why did he do it?" he was asked.

"Ah, I was compelled, artists, autograph collectors, illustrators and a hundred other representatives of different meiers and babbles pursued me, and this was my only way to escape the cordial crowd. And what fun I am having. I went to keep an appointment to paint a lady, and when I entered the drawing room she looked strangely disappointed. She had not the least idea who I was."

S. S. RATE WAR MAY DROP FARE AS LOW AS $10

VIENNA, Jan. 24.—Reports current today in Austrian shipping circles indicate that the German Atlantic steamship pool is preparing to wage a fierce rate war against the new Trieste-Montreal service about to be inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Company.

There is little prospect, steamship men say, that the shipping conference to be held in Berlin next week will result in any agreement.

Emigrants probably will be the chief beneficiaries of the rate war, as the steerage rates are likely to be reduced to $10 before the conflict ends.

In the meanwhile the Canadian company is arranging to begin a monthly service in March, increasing the sailing dates of its vessels as the traffic requires. The company is opening thirty-two emigration offices in various centres of Austria, especially at the chief points along the Russian frontier, hoping thereby to obtain a share of the large emigration traffic that has hitherto been monopolized by the German lines.

EX-TUFTS MAN SUED BY A MAINE GIRL

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 24.—Instead of the long expected engagement announcement between Miss Ida Giffin, tall and graceful, of Old Orchard and Charles W. Berry, a South Portland Alderman and a Tufts College dental student, news of impending settlement of an attachment upon Berry's property on Lincoln street in South Portland and a suit filed by Miss Giffin has created a great surprise among their friends.

JOYCE HERE IN LABOR DISPUTE

International Secretary Treasurer John J. Joyce of the A. F. of L., International Longshoremen's Union, is in Boston to act with the Boston unions in the threatening situation in this city. He brought with him a part of the international office force and until the Boston matter is adjusted the international headquarters will be virtually in this city.

HEN REWARDS HER RESCUER WITH EGG

GLOUCESTER, Jan. 24.—Because the Gloucester police rescued a hen from a man who claimed it had been given him to sell, the proceeds of the sale to go to the purchase of liquor, "Biddy" rewarded them with a gift. The gift was a nice, newly laid egg.

One Death Per Hour, Injury Every Five Minutes on Railways

MORTALITY TOLL ON AMERICAN RAILROADS

One killed each hour. One injured every five minutes.

A death an hour, an injury every five minutes is the toll of American railroads, according to S. W. Aikins, claim agent for the Boston & Maine, at a meeting of the road's employes in the old Fitchburg Station.

He said employes of railroads were thoughtless and that if they could be educated, three-fourths of the accidents could be avoided. He declared that he had come to despair of educating the traveling public, but believed that something might be accomplished by educating the children.

He said:

As the public have come to feel their ownership of the railroad, I think I detect a marked disregard for all rules of safety. They appear to have grown travel-wise, and every day I see them opening the gates and getting off the back side of the train, which, owing to many causes, is an act of most serious danger. I see them getting into the cars with their friends and getting out and jumping off after the train has started.

I see them getting on and off moving trains, and doing all manner of foolhardy things, and I see them indignant when you remonstrate with them.

GARDNER SAID TO BE SURE OF CABINET POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Although Governor Wilson's mind is still open it is learned from a source close to the President-elect that two of the Cabinet places are as good as filled. They are:

For Secretary of Agriculture—Senator Obadiah Gardner of Maine.

For Secretary of the Interior—Ex-Governor Edwin L. Norris of Montana.

Senator Gardner has denied that he was a candidate, but that was before the senatorship fight in his own State. Since his defeat by Burleigh he has seen Governor Wilson, and Democrats in this city close to the President-elect assert that Governor Wilson has questioned a number of party leaders about him and has decided to appoint him.

Ex-Governor Norris of Montana is one of the five men mentioned by the Western Democratic Senators as acceptable to them as Secretary of the Interior. They declared particularly a Western man, not simply a man from the Middle West. The choice of Norris, it is pointed out, because of the hostility of his State, will lead on to some extent at least the opposition of Middle Western Senators.

QUIT CALOMEL!

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-oil colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They oil the bowels, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities. 10c and 25c per box.

Elevated Likes Summerish-Winter: No "Snow Expense"

It's an ill summerish spell in mild winter that doesn't save somebody some money.

Boston's mild, warmish, far-from-wintry Winter has saved the Boston Elevated thousands of dollars. During one severe Winter, several years ago, it cost the Elevated upwards of $300,000 to run its snowplows and hire shovelers to keep the tracks and switches clear of snow. The lowest cost for snowplows and shovelers up to the present Winter was $50,000. To date the Elevated has had to spend practically nothing for plows or shovelers, as Boston has seen but a very little snow.

... snow and bad weather means interrupted service; the loss mounts higher than the actual cost of snowplows. This loss has been estimated at as high as $100,000. So it is easy to see that the Elevated is the all-round winner this Winter.

If Your Stomach Is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work?

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach. Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is good positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus

A Day's Work Is so Much Play to the Man With a Stomach Kept Right With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain these natural elements necessary to digestion, and when placed at work in the weak stomach lend needed assistance, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and their composition has been approved by the highest authorities.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is known among physicians as the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation, dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box and are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of the active principle in these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 3,000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

the State, for the honest retailer, and for the consumer.

The first is a bill which requires a store selling skim milk cheese, to let the customer know that it is skim milk cheese. It is to prevent DISHONEST RETAILERS FROM SELLING SKIM MILK CHEESE FOR CREAM CHEESE.

That is the whole intent, purpose and force of the bill.

The second is a bill forbidding retailers from selling oleomargarine or renovated butter loaded with water so that the customer pays sometimes as high as fifteen cents for water and twenty-five cents for butter in a pound of forty-cent butter.

The opponents of this bill are not necessarily dishonest. BUT THEY ARE ABSOLUTELY SELFISH. So far as appeared at the hearing everyone opposed to the bill was a man either in the retail business or hired by retailers to act as legislative representatives.

The opponents advance various pretexts. But what they want is TO PREVENT THE PASSAGE OF LAWS GIVING THE CONSUMER A RIGHT TO KNOW WHAT HE IS BUYING.

The advocates of this bill WANT TO SEE LAWS PASSED FORCING RETAILERS TO BE HONEST WITH THEIR CUSTOMERS.

Mr. Briggs Criticizes.

One speaker pleaded that the consumer should have confidence in the retailer. The consumer did have confidence—till the retailers betrayed that trust by selling adulterated, doped, drugged, or actually poisonous foods.

The Federal records show that a recent inspection of the scales in Boston stores found 38 PER CENT. OF THEM DISHONEST.

That is, in these stores, THE CUSTOMERS WERE BEING CHEATED BY BEING GIVEN SHORT WEIGHTS.

Alton E. Briggs, executive secretary of the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange, led the fight against these bills. He led the fight to prevent the passage of the bills FORCING RETAILERS TO BE HONEST WITH THEIR CUSTOMERS. Just get that fact straight, and remember it.

Instead of beginning with a discussion of the bills—which he hadn't even read through, when he opposed them at the first hearing—he began with an attack upon the AMERICAN for its attempts to secure the passage of these two bills to FORCE THE RETAILER TO GIVE HIS CUSTOMERS HONEST FOOD. He did not name the AMERICAN. Why bother, one not be said. The AMERICAN has never hesitated to name Mr. Briggs in criticising his opposition to measures DESIGNED TO GIVE THE PEOPLE PURE AND HONEST FOODS.

Mr. Briggs talked for quite a while. Here are some of the things he said:

"I ask in complete sympathy with the movement for pure food. The exchange which employs me is also in sympathy with this cause. I would not remain in their employ a moment if this were not so.

"The press has arraigned some gentlemen for opposing these bills. I don't believe a newspaper should be allowed to get by when they insult the State Board of Health, the Commonwealth and the authorities in general in this discussion by this statement, Mr. Briggs refers, doubtless, to the AMERICAN'S campaign for pure and honest food.)

Admits Standard Good.

"I have been laughed at and ridiculed, and ridicule is a powerful weapon, because I objected to this bill. I objected first to the entire bill, till I was told that it allows the sale of skim milk cheese if the fact that the cheese is skim milk cheese be stated to the customer. I now object to the requirement that the packages in which such cheese is sold, be labelled.

"I object because I believe many persons would not like to carry home a package labelled 'oleomargarine,' or 'skim milk cheese,' for fear of ridicule. I personally would not mind at all, but some people would."

Mr. Briggs said many other things. Then Senator Ward began to question him. Finally Mr. Briggs said:

"I MUST ADMIT THE STANDARD ESTABLISHED IN THIS BILL IS ALL RIGHT. WE DON'T QUARREL WITH IT. BUT WE DON'T THINK THE PACKAGE SHOULD BE LABELLED."

Which means that he admits that the standard of the bill does put skim milk cheese in one class and cream cheese in another; but that he, on a protest, will fight to the bitter end against the bill's clause forcing the retailer to tell the customer which kind of cheese he is getting.

A. J. Bartlett, a cheese wholesaler, spoke. He made a statement which will by trade measures punish the cheating wholesaler, or he can go to the federal government, which will quickly bring the cheating wholesaler to book.

Second—If the wholesaler does not deceive the retailer, THEN THE RETAILER MUST STAND THE RESPONSIBILITY.

And OPPONENTS OF THE BILL TESTIFIED AT THE HEARING THAT THE WHOLESALER DOES TELL THE RETAILER JUST WHAT SORT OF GOODS HE IS GETTING.

Therefore, the retailer, in the majority of cases, KNOWS THAT HE IS SELLING SKIM MILK CHEESE —BUT DOES NOT LET THE CONSUMER KNOW.

And that is injustice to the consumer.

Then came Mrs. Steinauer with her question. She asked:

"Mr. Mansfield, how is the consumer going to get back at the retailer? The retailer can get back at the wholesaler, but the consumer is helpless."

And Mr. Mansfield's only answer was—"You must have confidence in the retailer."

Then the opponents of the bill began their fight to put in a joker. They urged that no one should be prosecuted for cheating his customers unless he "knowingly" did the cheating. That opens the loophole—for it is almost impossible to prove that a retailer "knowingly" sold adulterated goods. He might sell a pound of cheese, from a cheese plainly marked "skim milk cheese," and not tell the customer. And when the law laid its hand on him, he could say: "I didn't know. I didn't see the marking on the cheese."

Should Favor the Bill.

Alton E. Briggs, defender par excellence of the doctrine that the consumer has no right to know what he is buying, said:

"There's an old law—'Let the buyer beware.' That's right. Buyers—especially women—don't work intelligently, and the result is that they don't get their money's worth. The buyer should look out for himself."

Mr. Briggs is a hundred years behind the times with this doctrine. The old saying—"caveat emptor"—"Let the buyer beware"—is antiquated. It reads now—"caveat vendor"—"Let the seller beware." It means that the retailer must take the responsibility for the food he sells.

The food retailer held a public trust. HE HAS VIOLATED THAT TRUST. THE PUBLIC IS NOT MOVING TO FORCE THE RETAILER TO SELL PURE AND HONEST FOODS.

And Mr. Briggs, and the others, when they oppose the passage of bills forcing the retailer to deal honestly with his customer, ARE FIGHTING THE MARCH OF PUBLIC OPINION.

The retailer will be forced to sell pure and honest foods.* Mr. Briggs himself, and his associates, may be perfectly honest in their opposition to this bill, one of their speakers admitted that it will hit a cheating practice in the trade.

AS HONEST MEN THEY SHOULD FAVOR THE BILL. AND HELP THE FIGHT FOR HONEST FOOD. INSTEAD OF OPPOSING THE BILL, AND SEEKING TO OPEN LOOPHOLES THAT WILL ALLOW THE RETAILER TO VIOLATE HIS PUBLIC TRUST.

SAYS IMPURE FOOD IS BEING SHIPPED BY PARCEL POST

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.—Professor Charles H. Lawall, State chemist, has complained to the Dairy and Food Commission that the parcel post is being used by manufacturers to import impure foods which are prohibited entry through other channels.

Lawall testified against four men arrested on a charge of selling a compound of sage brush starch colored with a prohibited coal tar dye as egg substitute.

MRS. STEINAUER, HEROINE OF PURE FOOD HEARING

HERE'S LATEST NEWS OF GOOD THINGS TO EAT

The indications are that butter will soon sell for a low figure for this season of the year. There is a large supply in storage at present and the daily receipts from the dairies and creameries are increasing. Dealers, anticipating a drop in prices, are buying only what they can readily dispose of, which makes the demand rather slack. At present butter is sold by the jobbers at prices ranging from thirty-seven and one-half cents for fancy Northern creamery prints to thirty-two cents for good Northern creamery tubs. The New York prices, for some unexplained reason, range about four cents less a pound on all grades.

The prices of new laid nearby eggs fluctuated somewhat in the Greater Boston markets, not only from day to day but in different sections. Jobbers quote at wholesale the range from thirty-seven to forty-two cents for strictly fresh eggs, but the retail price ranges from forty to fifty cents.

Although apples are still very cheap there is an upward tendency in the wholesale prices. Fancy Baldwins retail for $4.50 a barrel and greenings for about fifty cents less.

The price of potatoes is very high, and if the Maine railway strike continues for any length of time they are sure to soar to the record prices of last Spring, when Boston was importing potatoes from Europe by the million bushels. Jobbers quote a price of ninety-two and one-half cents a bushel today and retailers are asking from thirty to forty cents a peck.

Poultry Prices Stationary.

Southern grown greens are coming into the New England markets in increasing quantities. Spinach, kale, beet greens and dandelions are plentiful and moderate in price for this season. The retail price is from thirty to forty-five cents a peck.

Poultry prices do not vary greatly and the prices which prevailed shortly after Christmas are still maintained. Turkeys retail for thirty cents, young chickens for twenty-five to thirty cents, fowls for twenty to twenty-five cents, broilers and capons for thirty-five cents. Squab are very scarce and sell for $2.50 a dozen.

There is little probability that beef will ever be cheaper. There is a slight fluctuation in the wholesale price from time to time, but not enough to affect the retail prices. The choice cuts sell for almost prohibitive prices and the less desirable portions bring prices that would have seemed fabulous a few years ago. The first cuts from a good rump sells for forty cents a pound and the best forty cents for forty to forty-five cents. Tenderloins sell for about the same as choice rumps and sirloins, which are nearly all bone and fat, for twenty-eight to thirty-five cents.

Fish Scarcity Develops.

There is a scarcity of fish in the market at present, owing to the recent gales and hurricanes which have made fishing at sea more than ordinarily hazardous and prices are very high. Eastern halibut retails for sixty cents a pound, the highest price that ever obtained in Boston. Pacific halibut, shipped frozen from Puget Sound, sells for twenty-five to thirty-five cents. There are a few shad obtainable and the price is quite high, thirty-five cents a pound for jacks and fifty cents for roes.

'CHARITY' HEAD ONLY A PAUPER, HAD 50 CENTS

B. Augustus Duggan, president of the Children's Health Fund, a society whose affairs will be scrutinized by the Supreme Court a week from today as the result of an investigation by the Attorney-General's office, admitted today he was only a figurehead and had never seen any of the organization's accounts.

Duggan was finally discovered living alone in the kitchen of a sixteen-room South Boston house, with but fifty cents between him and starvation.

As the result of charges of misuse and abuse of corporation privileges by the society, a bequest of $25,000 hangs in the balance. It is understood if a forfeiture of the society's charter results from the finding of the court that this money will be paid to such charity as the court may designate.

Duggan declared today to a reporter at his home, No. 289 E street:

Duggan's Story.

Yes, I am the president of the society, but I am only a figurehead. I was appointed a year ago by Mr. Foley, the treasurer, but I have never seen a cent of money or any of the accounts of the society. I simply called the meeting to order twice in all that time and at both those sessions Mr. Foley told what he was going to do. George Averill, Mr. Foley and myself were those present.

I did not receive any salary.

For twelve years I lived here with my sister, Mrs. Eunice Angelina Barnham. About a month ago they took her away to the Austin farm. I am so miserable. I have only fifty cents to my name.

Statement by Attorney.

Joseph M. Sullivan, a Boston attorney, who in the report issued by Mr. Foley was listed as secretary of the society, declared he had acted as counsel for the society at various times, and that at only one meeting did he act as a secretary pro tem.

A visit was made to the office of the society at No. 31 Exchange street. On the door were the names of Mr. Foley and Mr. Averill, the words real estate, notary public and the name of the society.

A piece of paper pasted on the door read, "Please leave message," while hung at one side of the door was a rod of paper and a pencil on a string.

SUFFRAGISTS WILL SPEAK AT BIG MEETINGS

Under the auspices of the Massachusetts Equality Union preparations have been completed for a noon rally tomorrow in Pemberton square, to be followed by a big meeting at Tremont Temple in the evening, at both of which prominent suffragists will speak.

Anna H. Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association, will be one of the speakers at the noon rally. In the evening she will speak on "How Can Women Protect Themselves and the State?" Other speakers in the evening meeting will be Ignatius McNulty of the Ten Largest Union, whose subject will be "How Shall We Improve Labor Conditions for Women?"; Mary Chamberlain, who made the startling expose of child labor in the New York canneries, on "How Shall We Protect Children from Industrial Exploitation?"

Joseph Walker, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, will preside. The admission is free. Leaders and others connected with the meetings are:

Ushers from the Franklin Square House—Maude B. Clough, Alice E. Mills, Florence J. Mills, Bertha M. MacOrmondo, Marie Wood, Maude Rennie, Marie Torreano, Martha C. Ward, Nellie H. Crothers and Elizabeth M. Aery.

BISHOP O'CONNOR DEAD IN CANADA

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., Jan. 24.—Bishop O'Connor died early today in St. Joseph's Hospital, after an illness of ten days. The funeral will be held Tuesday. On August 2, 1911, his golden jubilee was celebrated, marking the completion of the half-century of his priesthood. He was born at Lixnaw, County Kerry, Ire., April 15, 1838. He came to Canada in childhood with his parents, and was educated at St. Michael's College, Toronto.

Clerks Have More Powerful Grips Than Quarrymen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Government clerks, whose physical culture exercise consists mainly in driving a pen or pounding a typewriter, have more powerful grips than the brawny workers in quarries. This is shown by a series of tests made by Gordon Law, physical director of the Washington Y. M. C. A., the results of which were made public today.

Law found that the average laboring man's grip is 99.9 pounds and the average clerk's white and well-kept hand gripped 11.2 pounds.

The most powerful of the quarrymen at a high mark for his fellow workers with a record of 125 pounds, but a clerk outgripped him by five pounds.

INVESTIGATE MILK SUPPLY AT AMHERST

Dr. Frank L. Morse of Somerville and Dr. Alonzo H. Rose, State Health Board physicians today joined in an investigation, which is expected to show the cause of the present epidemic of scarlet fever in Amherst. Dr. Morse was in Amherst about a week ago in connection with the cases of scarlet fever.

A rigid examination of the live stock of the territory in which the scarlet fever cases have been discovered will be made, for it is believed that the disease germs are being conveyed through milk and other foods.

LUDERS, NOTED COMPOSER, DIES VERY SUDDENLY

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Gustave Carl Luders, composer of "The Prince of Pilsen," and many other musical comedies, died suddenly early today in his apartment in the Times Court Apartment Hotel.

The doctor, who was called in, reported that apoplexy was the cause of death.

Mr. Luders, who was born in Berlin, Germany, was forty-nine years old.

He was the son of Dr. Gustav Luders. He went through the regulation life story of a German boy and served his year in the German Army. He had already shown a bent for music, and studied with Dr. Floyd ★★★ now the royal concertmeister at Dresden. In 1888 young Luders came to America, and three years later married Grace Gorealine of Waterford, N. Y. He had already begun to write the charming light operas, or musical comedies, which have made him famous.

In the list of his works perhaps the most famous were "King Dodo" and "The Burgomaster." Some of the others were "Woodland," where the characters were all birds; "The Rogue," "Mlle. Napoleon," "Marcelle," "The Fair Coed" and "The Old Town," which he wrote for Montgomery and Stone.

Thousand Sweet Kisses by U. S. Mail Cost Sender $500

Dr. Cangalosi, to Miss Mary Desiderio Dr., 1,000 kisses @ 50c., $500.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—This little bill for a thousand kisses, costing him $500, made Dr. Cangalosi, of No. 401 Madison street, Hoboken, declare today that he was seriously thinking of heading a petition to Congress asking for a law to fix the exact market value of kisses.

For the doctor thinks he has been overcharged. Prices were "boosted" outrageously, he thinks. Miss Desiderio, he regards very much as a "trust" baron—a "kiss trust" baron to be exact.

But the doctor would never have had to pay for the kisses, probably, had he married Miss Desiderio. It all happened because he decided he did not care to marry her. He never even proposed, he says.

RUSH YANKEE TROOPS AFTER MEXICAN RAID

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 24.—Telephone reports declare Mexican rebels fired on United States troopers of the Twelfth Cavalry, patrolling the border near Fabens, Tex. Troop B of the Thirteenth Cavalry has been sent to the scene.

Raiding of ranches by rebels in the same vicinity resulted in a fight with American ranchmen, who drove the raiders over the line, wounding one of them.

What Has Gone Before:

Frank Wentworth, rightful heir to a fortune, who has suffered nothing but reverses since leaving college, is living with his chum, Dick Gerson, in a cheap furnished room he rents from the Bales. He makes a confidante of Fudge, a little waif, and offers befriends her.

Dionysius Matherson, whose ward, Ruth Ferrars, was Frank's sweetheart in the latter's days of comparative affluence, holds in trust the fortune which Frank will receive if he marries Ruth. General and Mrs. Brittlebank are friends of the Mattersons. Mrs. Brittlebank being a woman of unknown antecedents. Frank is taken very ill in his wretched room and, on his sick bed, tells Gerson of the love for Ruth. Suddenly Mrs. Bale enters with a letter for Frank.

Now Go on With the Story

Mr. Matherson handed a check to Gerson

PART I.

"Well, it didn't strike me as you was anyway happy, swrith' and swrith' a heap of trash what brings in nothin'. Why, if I had my way, I'd burn them up here. She stirred up the coals vigorously.

"Ah! The wish is not a very consuming one, as the fire is out. But you look up well."

"Yes, he's come."

"Ha! Who?"

"My husband, Gommery. He has been aboard for his health."

"Oh! Is he any better?"

"Yes, and I hate him for it." Mrs. Gommery raised the poker as if to hinge it at an imaginary Gommery.

"Hate him, eh? Did you find him tough?" inquired Gerson.

Turning toward the bed, Mrs. Bale asked: "Has the doctor been here—the one that had been here a few days ago?"

"I haven't seen him."

"Then he doesn't mean to come," said Mrs. Bale significantly.

As soon as the door was closed Gerson picked up the note, and saw that it was addressed to Frank Wentworth." The office address of the senders, Lloyd & Matherson, attorneys, was on the corner of the envelope. It was the same firm that had advertised for Frank Wentworth. It was the letter that he had been looking for. Gerson determined to open the note and tell him of the contents if the news was good. If it was bad he would say nothing until a better time should come. Gerson broke the seal and read the note.

The writer said: "We must apologize for the delay in answering your letter, but a good deal of form and inquiry had necessarily to be pursued before we could offer our sincere congratulations on your good fortune. Our Mr. Matherson will call on you at six o'clock this evening to explain the nature of the will in which you are interested."

Gerson had scarcely finished the letter, and had not fully realized its contents before Mrs. Bale re-entered the room with the doctor.

"This way, and asking your pardon, doctor," she was saying.

Gerson hastily laid the note on the table and hurried to the door to meet the physician. The doctor nodded to him politely, and as he walked to the bedside asked if his friend was worse.

"I fear much worse," said Gerson.

He is in a very low fever," Mrs. Bale interrupted, "and it's my opinion he won't go out alive."

Gerson hustled Mrs. Bale out of the room and then turned to the doctor.

"He has been unfortunate, but there are better things in store for him. I think."

"Not in this world," said the doctor.

"What do you mean?"

"He is beyond help, sir, he is dead."

"Dead!" gasped Gerson. He was stunned by the blow, although he had expected it.

The doctor moved to the table. To him a death in a tenement house meant little. He drew out his notebook and prepared to make his report. He asked Gerson if Wentworth was his brother.

"No," replied he.

"I beg pardon," said the doctor. "I noticed the resemblance."

Gerson stood at the bedside looking down at Frank's pulseless face. "Dead!" he repeated. "His good luck comes too late."

Doctor Spies Letter

The doctor had taken up the letter lying on the table. Seeing that it was addressed to Frank Wentworth, he asked if it was the name of the dead man.

Gerson paused. And that one moment he had been tempted and fell.

"No, sir; it's mine," he said emphatically.

"And your friend's name is?" asked the doctor, pulling toward the bed with his pen.

"Richard Gerson."

"Richard Gerson—age?"

"Twenty-seven."

"Married?"

"No."

"Employment?"

"None."

"Parents?"

"Dead."

"A case for the coroner and city. Poor lad," said the doctor. "Starvation. You can call on me any time this evening for the certificate."

The doctor closed the door, leaving Gerson alone with the body of his friend.

"What have I done?" Gerson meditated. "What impulse seized me in that moment to give my name for his? What is the thought of what the letter told me? Dead—dead—I can't believe it. A moment since he spoke to me. Let me recall his words. 'Don't go—I shan't be able to see you presently. How I wish that I could leave you happy.' Ah, he was dying then, and died before I knew it. His last wish to leave me happy. Why not?"

The Appointed Time

Gerson drew the curtains slowly together and walked over to the table, picking up the note. Again he read: "Our sincere congratulations on your good fortune. Our Mr. Matherson will call on you at 6 o'clock this evening." What should prevent me reigning in his place? My knowledge of his life, the resemblance that we bore to one another.

A clock in the house struck six. "Ah—the hour!——"

A voice in the hallway was heard to say—"And the man."

It was Mr. Matherson who had spoken. He was on time to the second. Mrs. Bale was escorting him to the top floor. She hurried into the room ahead of him. Mr. Matherson had rested on the stairs to catch his breath.

"A gent to see Mr Wentworth," she said as she entered. "He says he was expected, and I must say if this one's a stunt running up and down——"

"Quite right," interrupted Gerson. "Please ask him to come up."

"But do you think he is well enough to see him?"

"Hush!" whispered Gerson.

"Why have you drawn the curtains of his bed?" asked Mrs. Bale, suspiciously.

"Because—because he has fallen asleep."

"Oh, this way, sir—this is his room, sir," she said as Mr. Matherson entered.

"Ah—dear me. What a—what a," he gasped.

"He's quizzing of the furniture—nice and clean, eh? Plenty of room to sling a cat, if one's a mind to," said Mrs. Bale aside.

"Be seated, sir, I beg," said Mrs. Bale, motioning him to take a chair.

"The upstart. Who's he, I wonder, to give himself such airs," said Mrs. Bale with a sneer.

"I presume I am addressing Mr. Matherson of the firm of Lloyd & Matherson?" queried Gerson.

"And are you Mr. Wentworth? I am delighted to make your acquaintance. You have our note, I see. Now, sir, you must be prepared for a great surprise."

He shook his head quickly.

Takes Frank's Place

"I am, sir," with assumed modesty.

"For the late Miss Cumberworth has left you the very considerable fortune of $100,000 conditionally on your marriage with a certain young lady who is now living on her estate. But in the event of your not marrying this young lady the whole estate will be inherited by her," explained Mr. Matherson, in a businesslike way.

"A singular will," replied Gerson.

"And more singular still that I should find the heir of such a prospect living in such a wretched den as this," said Matherson, looking about him.

"I have been unfortunate, indeed, till now, sinking during the last few months into the most complete poverty," explained Gerson.

"But you have education and good looks to favor you. Will you accept this note? You need not hesitate. I return to Westchester this evening. Will you be ready to accompany me? I leave by the 10 o'clock express."

Mr. Matherson handed a check to Gerson.

"Yes, but I don't know how to express my gratitude to you," he replied, taking the check, wondering where he could have it cashed.

"You owe me nothing, sir, a duty, merely that."

Mr. Matherson had turned to leave the room.

"Allow me," said Gerson, holding open the door.

"Thank you, I can find my way."

Mr. Matherson walked briskly down the stairs, glad to escape from the house.

"Am I awake?" Gerson mused. "Has the tide of my misfortune turned? He called me Wentworth and suspected nothing. Yes, I will go through with it. I am free. The temptation has been thrust in my hands in the darkest hour of my need. I will marry this girl, secure the fortune. What do I care for the world? What has it done for poor Frank Wentworth lying there so still? Such men as this a few hours since might have snatched him from the grave. And now he is dead. Frank and strategy succeed where truth and honor fail. Farewell to Richard Gerson, Frank Wentworth from this hour. The king is dead, long live the king.

Back to the Kitchen

After Mrs. Bale had been so rudely dismissed from the room in which Gerson had met Mr. Matherson and assumed the role of the heir, she returned to her kitchen.

As a dutiful wife she set the table for the return of Gommery, not forgetting to put a bottle of whiskey beside his plate. As she laid the knives and forks she meditated over the death of her lodger, and the way she would spend the money that Mr. Gerson had left with her to pay the funeral expenses. She decided not to tell Gommery of their windfall, as he would spend it for drink.

Gommery had not been idle. He had followed Mr. Matherson to the house and was listening at the keyhole when Gerson told the lawyer he was the missing heir. Before he was ready he had made up his mind that course to pursue when Gerson would formally claim the fortune. Mrs. Bale was pottering about the kitchen when Fudge entered. She asked the waif way she was not in bed.

"I have been unlucky tonight," replied Fudge.

"But I suppose you have earned your supper," said Mrs. Bale. "What's in that paper? Fish and potatoes?"

"No," replied Fudge, trying to hide the bundle.

Mrs. Bale tried to seize the package, but Fudge eluded her.

"What is it then?" she asked. "You are fattening yourself at my expense instead of forking over for your keep."

"Not very fat," said Fudge, looking down at her thin legs.

"But you have grossed out of knowledge and said you have it both ways. Let me see it. Is it better than I have got for Gommery?"

Again Mrs. Bale started in pursuit of Fudge. "Let me be!" cried the child.

Mrs. Bale Storms

Mrs. Bale caught her in the corner. "Put it down," she said. "And don't stand there attempting Providence."

"No—no—you s—ll touch it. Let me go," wailed Fudge, holding the bundle to her breast and struggling to release herself from the grasp of Mrs. Bale. With one hand she tried to unloose the woman's fingers.

"What! Would you raise your hand against me? Eh, Miss High and Haughty? Give me that parcel!" she cried, wresting it from her thin little hands.

Fudge slowly unwrapped the parcel and saw that Fudge had purchased the leg of a chicken and a piece of bun.

"So, this is what you call being unfortunate, is it?" she said, striking at her. Fudge dodged the blow, replying, "Taint for myself. It's for him as is ill with fever. Mr. Wentworth. He ain't had nothing."

"You'll laugh on the other side of your face," said Mrs. Bale, "when I tell you a piece of news."

"Them! Mr. Wentworth dead! It ain't true; It ain't true. You're a liar," cried Fudge. Her face was white with agony.

"I—eh? There's the key of his door on the table and why should it be there if he ain't dead and gone, eh? Ask Gommery."

Dead! Oh, no! Not dead! Fudge feared the worst, but clung to the hope that Mrs. Bale was trying to frighten her. She covered her face with her hands. Mrs. Bale looked at her in amazement, saying:

"What! Are you going to snivel?"

Fudge Mourns for Frank

"No—no," replied the child. "But there is something hurting me here," putting her hand to her throat. "Oh! it's only natural that I should care for him and he is gone—gone to the place he told me of, where the grass is green."

"I wish he had taken you along with him," growled Mrs. Bale.

"I wish so, too. I have got no home now; no home now. Oh, master, you ain't left me alone like this—you can't have gone and done it!"

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFULLY DARKENS THE HAIR WHEN FADED AND GRAY

Mixed with Sulphur Makes Hair Soft, Lustrous and Cures Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to our grandmother's time [illegible] beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a tonic of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing it at home is musty and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists mix it for you, which is [illegible] so nasty, so insist on getting Wyeth's, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and luxuriance to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears, after another application or two it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

JAMES J. HILL IS WITNESS ON MONEY TRUST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—The control of many banks through interlocking directorates was called a benefit to the country by H. P. Davison of the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., and one increase was prophesied in the consolidation of banks until "sound banking laws are established," during his testimony before the Pujo Money Trust committee today.

Davison denied that the control of banks through an ownership of a majority of stock represented a control of the bank's conduct.

James J. Hill, the railroad magnate, put in an appearance before the committee today. He entered the room while Davison was on the stand and took a seat directly in front of the chairman. He was called as a witness.

Samuel Untermyer questioned Davison.

Davison on Bank Trusts.

Q—You are connected with among the interests of all New York banks? A—I don't believe that we would control their conduct.

Q—Nor their independence? A—Their conduct would be independent.

Davison said that a law prohibiting interlocking directorates would be unfair to banks, as the experience of a man serving on the board of directors of more than one bank was more valuable than that of a man serving in a single bank. He said he would draw the line on interlocking directorates where the boards of the banks are dominated by the same factors.

Untermyer asked if the Chase National Bank or the First National Bank, both controlled by the Morgan interests, were real nominal competitors. Davison replied they were, in a slight degree, but their business was largely different, as the Chase was a bank of banks, having about 2,000 financial institutions as depositors.

Untermyer asked whether or not in Davison's opinion the interlocking directorates would continue.

"Interlocking directorates" replied the witness, "are not harmful, nor a menace, nor are a benefit to the people. The conditions will continue to increase until there have established banking laws that are sound."

Q—And you will help it to increase? A—We will do everything to aid the interests of the country.

Davison added that if J. Pierpont Morgan, George F. Baker and James Stillman owned all the banks in New York, the concentration of resources would not be increased.

Refuses to Answer.

"There would be increased concentration," he said, "but not of the actual material."

Q—Would not there be a concentration of credit in the hands of these men if they controlled all the banks in New York?

Davison refused to answer this question. He declared he would be unfortunate if directors were prohibited up to from borrowing from their banks. A few evil practices, he said, should not make the system criminal.

Q—What limit would you put on the amount which a director could borrow? A—I would put no limit other than that prescribed for any other borrower.

The witness declared that minority stockholders were entitled to a voice in the organization and management of their companies.

Whether or not a law should be enacted to provide this, he was not certain.

"It is a very difficult matter to work out in practice," he said.

Untermyer inquired if Davison thought that bonds should be offered to stockholders, instead of to new stocks of a company.

"I think it would kill the market on bonds to offer to sell them generally to stockholders," replied Davison. He also declared against competitive bidding in the sale of bonds. He said it was "a bad practice."

Davison stated that it was unethical for officers of banks to participate in and receive profits from syndicate flotations of bonds. He did not know that the practice was general, but added if it were, it should be prohibited by law.

Morgan's Cash Reserve.

Asked concerning the cash reserve kept by J. P. Morgan & Co., he stated that sufficient always was on hand to pay any depositor in full.

Following up a statement in which he declared that the Money Trust investigation was futile, and that no such control as has been asserted really exists, The statement said in part:

It is most regrettable and harmful that either Congress or the country at large should gain the belief erroneous impression that the great resources of this country are at the disposition of a small group of men, or that the corporations themselves are controlled by a minority of their various boards.

"Sport Is Cruelty," Mrs. Fiske Tells S. P. C. A. Meeting

"I hope to see the time when women will refuse to wear furs and aigrettes," said Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, now playing in Boston, in a lecture before the S. P. C. A. meeting at No. 211 Commonwealth avenue. She made a plea for more humane methods of transporting cattle and slaughtering them, and she placed the hunter in the same category with the butcher.

Though she admitted that she was not herself a vegetarian, she said that "our treatment of animals, even the lowest and most lovable, reacts upon our character and I believe meat-eating unnecessary.

"Worse than the suffering which results from rapidity and neglect is that wantonly inflicted in sport," she continued. "The children of today will not be lower citizens of tomorrow when they are taught that the greatest reward is he who brings with cruelty any helpless living thing."

BUSINESS MAN BIG STUDENT OF TRUCK PROBLEM

By J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The pleasure car can "get by," as the popular phrase has it, even if it does develop a few defects, but the commercial car is judged purely from a business standpoint and must win or lose strictly on its merits.

This phase of the motor truck industry is apparent as one walks through the two big shows in the Garden and the Grand Central Palace, which have been daily crowded with men of large business who are representing big corporations and merchants who within the next six months will substitute thousands of horse-drawn vehicles for the power motor.

Heretofore, the National show has been considered a wholesale show. The business has been carried on with the agents from different parts of the country. But, this year for the first time, the manufacturers gone to the truck show and has seen all the types and hundreds of orders for trucks have resulted.

So many cars have been sold right off the floor in the truck show that the makers do not hesitate to say that in 1913 the motor vehicle business will be trebled, double that of the past year.

The exhibit of trucks exhibited for the first time at the show is the Willys utility wagon, shown along with the Gramm trucks. These cars are the product of the truck department of the John North Willys organization. The Willys truck has a capacity of 1,500 pounds, a four-cylinder, water cooled motor, chain drive and steer.

It is intended for a delivery car and has unusual facilities for quick load and unloading at the curb side and front. Besides this new wagon they are exhibiting a five-ton Gramm truck, a new Gramm truck with a stake platform body and a two-ton Gramm truck.

Some of the Types.

Another newcomer among the builders of trucks of the one and one-half to two-ton size is the Reo. Heretofore the Reo commercial vehicles have been confined to the 1,500-pound delivery wagon, with a single cylinder, two-cycle horsepower engine. This is being shown, but the latest Reo is a one and one-half to two-ton truck with a four-cylinder, 30-horsepower engine. This is being shown, but the latest Reo is a one and one-half to two-ton truck with a four-cylinder, 30-horsepower motor. The exhibit also includes a chassis and a platform body for the 1,500-pound, a sectional radiator, by which damaged parts may be quickly removed and replaced, a double chain drive and left-side control.

The Messenger truck, which is handled in Boston by the G. L. Dodge agency, which made its debut in the East during the Boston show three days ago, is on exhibition at the Palace. For 1913 the Messenger is made in three sizes of chassis, 1,000 pound, one-ton and one and one-half ton capacity. The 1,000-pound model is shown with an open body and the one and one-half ton is equipped with a stake body.

The Sternberg exhibit in the Grand Central Palace has two finished bodies and one chassis. The latter is a new type to Boston. Hanson Brothers, of Commercial street, have had the agency in New England, and have met with great success. The five-ton chassis is a huge piece of mechanism and is capable of carrying almost any kind of a load. The four-cylinder is shown in the one-ton size and the three-ton model is equipped with a stake platform body. A four-cylinder motor is used on the Sternberg.

Back from Abroad.

Kenneth M. Blake, manager of the Boston branch of the Locomobile Company of America, has just returned from a six-weeks' trip abroad. He arrived in time to see the pleasure car section of the thirteenth National Automobile Show. While Mr. Blake's trip was made purely for pleasure, he could not help but observe automobiles and motor trucks abroad and note how they compared with the domestic product. He is convinced that American makers of commercial vehicles are far more advanced than European, especially as regards the economical use of the truck.

"I spent considerable time in London and other cities," said Mr. Blake, "and while it is true that the Europeans take great pains to build a good motor and chassis, they are not up to us when it comes to producing demountable and dumping bodies which are such big time and money savers. I failed to see anything like our new Locomobile demountable body models for efficiency.

"For one thing, time in Europe does not mean as much as it does in America. The European merchant, as a rule, does not fret about the hours his truck remains idle while loading and unloading, whereas the American does. Labor being cheaper abroad, the loss of time occasioned by the carrier's idleness does not have to be figured as closely as on this side of the water."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

Stock markets opened weak. London was gloomy before exchanges on this side began business. In New York there was a marked decline at the outset and prices were lower at the start in Boston. Everywhere there was a palpable lack of support.

In the speculative market in London, copper quotations were down more than a pound at the opening. This lowered mining share prices.

Losses during the first hour or so in the local market included Butte & Superior, off 1⅛; Superior Copper, 2, and Calumet & Arizona, 1. Butte & Superior was one of the issues which improved some after the opening.

Maydower advanced a point and St. Mary's hair as much within the first half-hour.

Exports of copper for the week ending yesterday show a decrease of 6,586 tons.

Gold to the amount of $3,300,000 was withdrawn from the New York Sub-Treasury this morning for shipment to South America.

In response to weak cables the New York cotton market opened eleven to fifteen points lower. Shorts were quick to take advantage of the break and the list rallied on covering orders after the call. Wall Street interests were among the best buyers. Futures and cash in Liverpool were weak on Continental selling as a result of the change in the Balkan situation.

Prices Lower in New York.

At the opening the New York market was depressed by the situation in Turkey, which is construed as casting doubt upon a peaceful settlement between Turkey and the Balkan allies. Good news yesterday concerning that affair did not influence markets here, but unfavorable news today had a bearing, according to dispatches here. There was more supply of stocks than demand when trading started and declines ranged from fractions to 2 points or more. In a few minutes a tendency to decline developed and a number of issues made substantial recoveries.

Canadian Pacific opened at 243, declined 3 points within fifteen minutes. Amalgamated, which sold ex-dividend of 1½, opened 1% lower, but subsequently rallied.

Among the other declines were: Woolworth 5%, Utah Copper 2, U. S. Steel common 1, Union Pacific ⅝, Southern Pacific ⅝, Reading ⅝, Ray Consolidated ⅝, Pennsylvania ¼, Northern Pacific ⅞, New York Central ¾, Missouri Pacific ⅝, Inter-Metropolitan ½, Great Northern pf. ½, Erie ⅜, Chino 1¼, St. Paul ½, Atchison ⅛, Anaconda ⅝ and American Telephone ¾.

The Curb was heavy.

American stocks and Canadian Pacific were weaker in London.

The New York sub-treasury lost $147,000 to the banks yesterday and since Friday has gained $8,079,000.

Copper Slumps in London.

There was another slump in the London copper warrants market at the opening, spot declining £1 5s. and futures £1 2s. 6d. The revolt in Turkey over the peace terms accepted by the government at this capital is given as the cause of the break.

In discussing the metal situation yesterday, when quoting prices for copper, a speedy settlement of the war troubles, President H. H. Rogers of the Anaconda Company said: "The present condition of the copper market is due to the effect of the Balkan war. Everything indicates, however, that consumption equals production at present. Stocks usually carried by consumers are now in the hands of producers. Every one is confident that as soon as the Balkan situation is cleared up there will be a demand for copper by foreign countries who for the past few months have been practically out of the market."

Financial News in Brief.

Utah Copper Company's production in 1912 was 55,015,391 pounds, compared with 99,456,225 in 1911. The December output production was 5,975,246 pounds, compared with 4,502,544 in November, 5,128,572 in October and 9,039,557 in December, 1911.

The report on Wall Street is that Union Pacific and Southern Pacific directors are deadlocked with Attorney-general Wickersham over the dissolution question and another report is that the government is disposed to make some concessions in regard to the compulsory sale of Central Pacific.

Traders regard the testimony of W. E. Corey, former Steel Trust president, at Washington, as a bear factor.

The gyrations of American Can inspire more than confidence in the minds of many.

Foreign trade figures for December last show that this country's exports increased $26,340,000 in that month and imports $12,955,000.

General Chemical Company reports net profits for the eleven months ended November 30, 1912, $2,406,000. Net profits for the year, 1911 were $2,421,886.

The American Locomotive Company has sufficient orders on its books to insure operation of its plants to capacity at least until the close of the current fiscal year, on June 30.

American Hide and Leather Company reports net earnings of $747,868 for the six months ended December 31, 1912, as compared with $423,554 for the corresponding period of 1911.

M. C. Kennedy, president of the Cumberland Valley Railroad, has been elected a director of the Norfolk & Western, succeeding Samuel Rea.

Iron and steel experts from this country for the eleven months ended November 30, 1912, were $260,062,865, as compared with $249,656,411 for the entire year of 1912.

COREY TELLS MORE ABOUT STEEL TRUST

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—William E. Corey, former president of the U. S. Steel corporation, testified in the government's suit against the Steel Trust today on cross-examination that he had recommended the expenditure of five millions of dollars a year for five years on the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company's plant after its purchase by the Steel corporation.

It showed that after certain plants had been rebuilt and others built, T. C. I. could in five years be made a dividend payer for the corporation," testified Corey. He said he had never seen the plant until it had been purchased by the Steel Corporation.

Mr. Corey also testified that at the Gary dinners on several occasions the independent steel manufacturers had urged that the price of steel rails should be boosted above $28 per ton, but that the Steel Trust considered $28 a high enough price.

Under the leading of C. P. Severance, who cross-examined Mr. Corey, the witness said that there were numerous complaints to the Steel Corporation about the rails sold to the Harriman lines by T. C. & I., and some had to be taken back and replaced.

Relative to what had to be done with the T. C. & I. plant, Mr. Corey said that the new rail mill and open hearth plants were in fair condition, but that the blast mills are obsolete and not one blast furnace had to be remodelled.

The sale of the corporation having sold rails in forty-seven countries and of knowing of a combination of foreign steel manufacturers against the United States Steel Corporation.

ASK MORE PAY FOR CONCORD CHAPLAIN

Chairman Pettigrove of the Massachusetts Prison Commission and Superintendent Baker of the Concord Reformatory appeared before the Committee on Public Service at the State House today and asked that the salary of Chaplain Walker of the reformatory be advanced from $2,000 to $2,500. The points advanced for the raise were that his work in connection with the 600 inmates entitled him to an increase; that he was on call practically every hour of the twenty-four, and that he had accomplished more lucrative work, when he went there two years ago.

RECORD FOREIGN WHEAT CROPS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Wheat production in Argentina, Australia and New Zealand this season is one-third greater than in the previous season, totalling 321,000,000 bushels.

DINNER FOR MISS GARDNER TONIGHT

A dinner dance will be given tonight in honor of Miss Constance Gardner, debutante daughter of Mr. Augustus P. Gardner, at No. 7 Marlboro street, the home of Robert Windsor.

DEMOCRATS TO TAX LUXURIES ON SCHEDULE J

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—More than 15 per cent. of all the tariff revenue for 1912 was raised from schedule J, consideration of which the House Committee on Ways and Means began today.

Linens, laces and linoleums, waterproof cloth, rock carpets and hydraulic hose, curtains, cables and cordage, threads, tapes and tampico, and a variety of other manufactures of flax, hemp, jute, tamile and so on are embraced in the schedule on which the government last year derived $40,000,000 of revenue, from imports whose aggregate valuation reached $108,998,000. The ad valorem rate now averages 65 per cent.

All along the line, luxuries are to be taxed on an ad valorem basis under the Democratic program for the coming extra session. Most of the large number of items in the schedule are dutiable under the luxury classification. Under the present law the great bulk of linens, sheets and pillow shams, wearing apparel and many other uses pay 50 per cent., and some other items as high as 60 per cent. ad valorem.

Cotton collars are now dutiable at 45 cents a dozen and 15 per cent ad valorem, and linen collars 40 cents a dozen and 15 per cent ad valorem. Democratic members of the committee think that such duties are needlessly high, highly competitive, and that the rate on most of the articles will not be disturbed materially, there may be reductions on many where the committee believes it can cut with help for the revenue.

Punish Wholesale Thieves on a WHOLESALE Scale

The Punishment of the Big Thief at Wholesale Would Be Wholesome, Just Punishment, for Such a Thief's Profits Are Wholesale Profits.

Copyright, 1912, by American Journal-Examiner

We lock up and punish severely LITTLE THIEVES every day.

When the railroads find a man stealing coal from a car, the father perhaps throwing a few lumps from the car and the daughter picking up the coal and carrying it away—father and daughter are put in jail very QUICKLY.

If we catch a man stealing a loaf of bread, we put him in jail—there is no trouble about it.

Yet these thieves that we put in jail every day are RETAIL thieves. They steal on a small scale. They are PUNISHED ON A BIG SCALE.

Once in a while we catch a wholesale thief.

Recently, for instance, a man named Ehler J. Ernst, a wholesale coal dealer, partner of Ernst Brothers, in New York city, was put in jail for WHOLESALE STEALING.

He sold shortweight coal to his customers and charged for full weight.

In other words, he stole so much from every ton of coal that he was supposed to sell.

We can talk frankly about him because he confessed.

We have nothing in particular against any particular wholesale thief. He is one of thousands.

But on general principles we would like to point out that it would be an excellent thing for justice, an excellent thing for the public welfare, an excellent thing for public opinion, if our courts would make it a habit to punish WHOLESALE THIEVES on a WHOLESALE SCALE, and punish poor, miserable, uneducated, poverty-stricken hungry RETAIL thieves ON A RETAIL SCALE.

Punish the man who steals a bag full of coal from the railroad, if you like.

Put him in jail for a month, if you feel that you ought to.

But, if you put a man in jail one month for stealing a bag of coal, PUT A RAILROAD PRESIDENT IN JAIL FOR TWENTY YEARS FOR STEALING MILLIONS OF DOLLARS FROM THE PUBLIC, or for committing murder in the New York, New Haven & Hartford style.

If you put in jail for three months the poor devil who steals a ham or a loaf of bread, then in the name of common justice lock up for five years a man who steals coal from every ton of coal that he is supposed to sell.

We give big profits to the wholesaler and little profits to the retailer.

Let us in crime give big PUNISHMENT to the wholesaler, and little punishment to the retailer—THUS WE SHALL DISCOURAGE WHOLESALE STEALING.

For when you stop the wholesale stealing of railroads, coal dealers, Meat Trust, and all the rest of it, you will diminish retail stealing.

For the retail thief, poverty stricken and distressed, is the result of the system of wholesale thievery that keeps the people poor.

Legislature Should Pass Bill to End Logrolling

Dr. Morton Prince has petitioned for the enactment of a law to prohibit an evil in the method of procuring legislation which at times becomes very menacing.

The bill which Dr. Prince has filed aims at logrolling in the Legislature. This is an ancient and evil practice which substitutes secret trades and bargains for fair arguments on proposed laws.

The process of logrolling is as simple as the injury to the public is great.

Representative Jones wants a new court house in Salem. Representative Smith wants to give the New Haven Railroad a right to own all the trolleys in middle and western Massachusetts. Representative Smith, thereupon, proposes to Representative Jones that he (Smith) will vote for a court house in Salem if Jones will vote to give the New Haven Railroad control of all the trolleys in the middle and western part of the State. Thus Smith gets Jones' vote for the New Haven Railroad monopoly without the least consideration on Smith's part whether Salem needs such a court house badly enough to warrant the public expenditure.

It is well known that one of the worst of the bad practices which put the New Haven trolley merger bill through the Legislature last year was the practice of logrolling.

In some respects it is even worse than downright bribery, because it always involves improper voting upon TWO measures, while bribery involves only the measure in which the corrupter and the corrupted are interested.

Perhaps the worst feature of the logrolling practice is not the number of ill-considered votes which it obtains for the measures affected by it, but the general attitude of the members of the Legislature towards their responsibility which it begets.

A member who begins to trade votes and other members who see it going on around them soon come to believe that their vote is a personal asset, something they own THEMSELVES, not something that belongs to the COMMUNITY and of which they are only the TRUSTEES. This change in the point of view from which a legislator looks at his duty lowers the whole tone of the Legislature and affects the quality of all legislation.

Dr. Prince is right in believing that the practice ought to be prohibited by law under severe penalties. The fact that it is an ancient practice in which honorable men have indulged for many years is a greater reason for making it a criminal offense. When it is prohibited under the pains and penalties of the law, self-respecting members of the Legislature will not practice it. It will fall into disrepute, and, if not abandoned altogether, will be very materially reduced in practice.

Platonic Love—No Such Thing Exists. Those Who Try to Cultivate This Sentiment Make Dangerous Experiment

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1913, by the Star Publishing Company.

"One of the rhetorical commonplaces in literature and conversation, none is more frequently repeated than the assertion that love, as depicted in a thousand novels and poems every year, has existed at all times, and in every country, immutable as the mountains and the stars, but romantic love is a modern sentiment, less than a thousand years old.

"Not till Dante's 'Vita Nuova' appeared was the gospel of modern love—the romantic adoration of a maiden by a youth—revealed for the first time in definite language. Genius, however, is always in advance of its age, in emotions as well as in thoughts, and the feelings experienced by Dante were obviously not shared by his contemporaries, who found them too subtle and sublimated for their comprehension. And, in fact, they were too ethereal to quite correspond with reality. The strings of Dante's lyre were strung too high and, touched by his magic hand, gave forth harmonic overtones too celestial for mundane ears to hear."—Henry T. Finck, in "Romantic Love and Personal Beauty."

THIS curious and interesting old book, which deals with all phases and attributes of love, has nothing whatever to say of platonic love.

Study Showed Old Author That No Platonic Love Exists

It is to be supposed that the man who made such an exhaustive study of the affectional nature of man in all ages believed, with the writer of this article, that there is no such sentiment as platonic love. The following letter, therefore, contains a question which cannot be satisfactorily answered:

"Will you please give me a full explanation of platonic love through the columns of your paper? I know this is a very deep subject, and one which is discussed very often, but all of my friends seem to have a different opinion of what they think it is. For this reason I submit it to you. What is platonic love?

"WOMAN READER."

So platonic love is a deep subject!

I beg leave to differ with my questioner on this point.

In truth, I hold platonic love to be so shallow that it can be seen through at a glance.

It does not exist.

There is no such thing.

There is a friendship possible between man and woman. It is a mental comradeship, or admiration, which does not call for actual association.

This man and woman are quite satisfied to hear of each other's health, happiness and success. Months, or even years, may intervene without their meeting, and they feel no sense of loss or loneliness. At times the thought may flash across either mind that it would be pleasant to meet and exchange greetings. But there is no pain in separation.

If either hears of the other's misfortune, loss or failure in any project, there is genuine regret and sympathetic sorrow.

When they meet there is mutual pleasure and exchange of ideas and experiences, but no pain at parting, and no necessity is felt by either for a fixed date of meeting again.

The moment that necessity is felt by either one, friendship has crossed the danger line.

A man or woman may entertain a half dozen or a score of such friendships, according to his or her capabilities of human interest. A woman may enjoy meeting one man occasionally for his wit, another for his wisdom, another for his knowledge of the world, another for his agreeable social qualities. Not one is necessary to her life, yet all contribute to its entertainment. She would be glad of the good fortune of any one, sorry for his misfortune.

Do Favor Consistent with Good Taste for Any One

She would do any favor consistent with good taste for any one of them. She would be saddened by the death of any one of them, yet the loss would not shadow her life.

This is my idea of wholesome, sincere friendship between man and woman.

It is in no sense platonic love.

The moment we use the word love we speak of a claim, a necessity.

The element of love entering into our affection, we find the object necessary to our happiness.

When a man becomes in any way necessary to a woman, or a woman to a man, the tie is no longer mere "friendship," nor can any trumped-up makeshift of "platonism" disguise its real nature.

When any human being becomes a part of your plans for pleasure or happiness each day, or each week, or each month, there is danger ahead for you, if that being is of the opposite sex and not related to you by blood ties.

Wreath it over as you will with flowery talk of platonic love, nevertheless, you are marching to the chasm of dangerous experiment.

You may as well carry a lighted match into a dynamite factory and say you are safe.

A man's housekeeper or secretary may be necessary to his comfort or to the successful accomplishment of his business. He may say, "I could not get along without her." But that is another question.

It is when the social and holiday side of the man's nature feels the necessity of some one woman to share his enjoyment that he needs to be on his guard, if he wishes to avoid giving or receiving pain or finding himself in some sort of trouble.

Association Without Appeal to the Senses Means Little

However mental, spiritual or highminded a man and woman may be, there can be no continual pleasure in repeated association which does not contain an element of the senses.

They may be unconscious of it, yet it is nevertheless there—a subtle, magnetic current impossible to define and as full of dangers as the lightnings of the "live wire."

Selfish, self-indulgent men will tell you there is not a word of truth in what I say, dear madam; but they know every word of it is true. And if you allow any one of them to undertake to prove the existence of "platonic love" to you, you, too, will find to your sorrow how correct my estimate it.
